

REBELS JAIL THOUSANDS

MADRID, March 30.—(UP)—The triumphant Nationalist government declared military law in the Madrid area today as Gen. Francisco Franco's armies took over all key cities of Spain and rounded up many thousands of Republican prisoners.

Every section of the Nationalist army, spreading out through territory surrendered by the Republicans as the long civil war ended, reported the capture of thousands of military and political prisoners. The southern army alone reported it had taken 60,000 men, including the entire general staff of the former Republican army in Estremadura.

Nab Leader
At Burgos, it was reported by radio that Julian Besteiro, interior minister in the last Republican regime at Madrid, had been placed in custody, although previously the Nationalist officials had said he was merely under guard at the finance ministry. Besteiro was one of the moderate Republicans active in bringing an end to the war.

No announcements were made in regard to search by Nationalist police for persons guilty of crimes and scheduled by Franco for trial before Nationalist tribunals, but it was understood that many fugitives had been unable to escape. The principal Republican leaders, including Gen. Jose Miaja, fled by airplane yesterday to French territory in North Africa.

"Mop-up" Drive
The declaration of martial law through Madrid was issued by the military governor, Esponosa De Los Monteros, who ordered surrender of all arms. Civil guards were sent out in a house to house search for hidden arms.

The military law declaration put Madrid under the same form of rule effective in the rest of the territory taken over by the Nationalists.

Military officials said that it might take Nationalist armies until Easter to complete occupation of all of Spain but the main cities such as Valencia, Ciudad Real, Cuenca, Guadalajara were rapidly taken over. Alicante and Murcia were among the last to be occupied by Nationalists of Falangists.

Consider Plan To Block "Isms"

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(UP)—William S. Wasserman, Philadelphia financier, today said high administration and war department officials are considering a plan to block the totalitarian powers' trade-bartering system with this country's 15 billion dollar gold supply.

"The gold is almost useless to us," he said. "We have given away billions of dollars in commodities, securities and bank balances. In return we have taken metal and buried it in Kentucky. The flow of gold into this country has disrupted the monetary systems of many nations, forced blocking of foreign exchange, and played into the hands of the barter-dealing dictators.

"It is only a matter of time until the rest of the world will abandon gold entirely, and we will be left with metal altogether valueless save for extremely limited use in industry and the arts."

Order Slash In Wage Schedule

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today ordered reductions averaging four per cent in wages to be paid laborers in continental sugar beet fields by growers who apply for government benefit payments.

The wage determination, required by the sugar act in 1937, will apply to all areas except California, where minimum wages were established last November.

Wallace said the general level of minimum wage rates this year would be about four per cent under last year, cancelling a four per cent increase granted in 1938.

Appoint Sheppard To Powerful Committee

Announcement of the appointment of Congressman Harry R. Sheppard, (D), representative of the 19th district embracing Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties, to the all-powerful House appropriations committee, was made here last night at a meeting of the Orange County Democratic Association.

The appointment came as a surprise to his friends here as well as official circles in Washington since it is unusual that a man serving only in his second term is accorded the honor. Ordinarily only "veteran" congressmen are taken into the committee that has control of all appropriations of the federal government.

Sheppard was appointed by Congressman William Bankhead, of Alabama, speaker of the house, to fill the absence left by the death of Congressman Dailey, of Arkansas.

Important Post
The appointment automatically makes Sheppard the only representative in California on the committee. In a telegram to friends here Sheppard indicated that he appreciated the importance of the appointment and assured his constituents of "diligent application" to the work of the group. Harold Thoreson, formerly secretary to Sheppard and now postmaster at San Bernardino, made the announcement of the appointment.

ASSERTED BIGAMIST SHUNNED BY SPOUSE

A young woman with disillusionment in her eyes sat in superior court here today and started straight ahead, waiting to testify that she had married a bigamist.

She was Odette Enid Krokstrom, former Omaha girl, and hers was said to be the fury of the woman scorned.

Her eyes, which once had poured adoration upon him, now ignored the man who sat in front of her, beyond the court rail. Behind her stolid look may still have blazed her bitter memories. But of these thoughts she gave no sign.

Studies Jury
Melvin Brush, 27, the man beyond the court rail, likewise gave no sign of awareness. His own glance ran speculatively over the faces of 12 men and women assembled to decide his guilt or innocence of bigamy.

Meanwhile, Deputy District Attorney Martell Thompson, handling the prosecution, called two ministers to the stand, each testifying of performing a marriage of Brush. The Rev. Eldred Charles, Los Angeles, told of Brush's wedding to Thora Washburn in Los Angeles in 1936. The Rev. Greta Brown, of the First Christian church here, testified of Brush's marriage in Santa Ana last July 15 to Odette Krokstrom.

The state alleges that no divorce was sandwiched between these marriages.

Harold H. Boyce, district attorney's investigator, was the third witness, being closely cross-examined by Attorney Samuel Dreizin, defense counsel. Other witnesses were scheduled later today.

Coach Pleads Not Guilty To Forgery

Russell T. Wilson, 47, former coach at Tustin Union High school, pleaded not guilty to a charge of forgery when he appeared in superior court in Los Angeles this morning. His trial was set for April 14 before Judge Frank G. Swain.

Wilson, who waived his preliminary hearing, had indicated that he would plead guilty to the charge of forging the name of V. L. Humeston, a fellow teacher, to a check for $232.

Wilson assertedly confessed to forging the check because he was "hard up." Officers said he told them he found the check on the floor of a school room.

Appointed

Word was received here today of the appointment of Congressman Harry R. Sheppard becomes the only California representative on the committee that controls all appropriations by the federal government.

URGES TRAINING OF GOVERNMENT AIDES

"Democracy, in order to be preserved, must compete with dictatorship," declared Dr. Paul Ashby of University of Southern California, in closing a thoughtful talk this morning before the Civic conference in session today in Ebell auditorium under sponsorship of Orange County League of Women Voters.

That the only successful way in which this competition could be maintained, was by trained personnel in government affairs, was the conclusion reached by Dr. Ashby in summing up the points of his address.

Importance Amplified
As a member of the history and government department of the University, he is well qualified to speak on this subject of a trained personnel, and he told of the importance to which governmental functions have grown. He compared the more than 300 functions of the present with the 24 functions in existence a hundred years ago, and told of the co-operation offered by such educational institutions as University of California, Stanford, and the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin, in offering training for governmental posts.

That educational institutions must have the co-operation of the public in putting such programs into effect, was a point which he brought out. The need of capable trained men to fill such posts was

Coaching Staff In Shakeup

TAFT, Cal., March 30.—(UP)—A wholesale shakeup by the Taft high school and junior college board of trustees today left both schools without athletic directors or any semblance of coaching staffs.

By unanimous vote the trustees, charging lack of harmony in the athletic department, ousted Les J. Kienholz, athletic director and head jaycee football coach; Monty Reed, Taft high school grid coach; and two assistants, V. W. Helm and Ed Sewell. The board retained the services of the four men as regular instructors.

The trustees said the physical education departments would be given thorough reorganizations.

House To Debate Relief Measure

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP)—The House voted today to begin consideration of the $100,000,000 relief bill under a rule attacked by opponents as "an arrogant gag."

When Speaker William H. Bankhead called for a vote on the rule under which the bill will be debated, it passed with a shout of ayes.

Adoption of the rule opened the bill for four hours of general debate, but barred all amendments except those affecting the amount of the appropriation—cut one-third from the $150,000,000 requested by President Roosevelt. It also prohibited points of order.

CHAMBERLAIN SEEKS PACT

LONDON, March 30.—(UP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's announcement of an important increase in British army strength was made coincident with new proposals to Poland for military co-operation against German aggression, it was understood today.

The cabinet met in emergency session at No. 10 Downing street to consider the European situation and plans for increasing the territorial army strength. Before the meeting Chamberlain conferred with Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal party leader, and Arthur Greenwood, a Labor party leader.

Strengthens Force
Increase of the territorial army, corresponding to the American national guard, meant that Great Britain was providing for a force of 1,000,000 trained men who could be put into action at once in event of war. These would include the regular army, the territorials—now to total 350,000 men instead of 130,000—and reservists.

QUIZ SUSPECT IN L. A. MURDER CASE

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—(UP)—Joseph D. Bushane, 42-year-old actor, was held on suspicion of murder today in connection with the slaying last month of a Russian dancer and the bludgeoning early yesterday of a young actress.

Bushane, a Yugoslavian, was identified by Mrs. Ethyle Chenette, 42, a circus rider, as the man who kicked her down on a Hollywood street last Thursday night, police said.

The attack occurred in the same area where Miss Delia Bogard, 17-year-old actress and dancer, was slugged and perhaps fatally injured early yesterday. Mrs. Chenette was walking home from the same theater that Miss Bogard had attended.

Murder Suspect
Police believe that the man who slugged Miss Bogard is the same who killed Anya Sosoyeva, 32-year-old Russian dancer and singer, on the Los Angeles City College campus a week ago.

Police said Bushane lives near a construction job where the slugging could have obtained the section of scantling with which both women were hit.

Bushane denied he was the slugging. Meantime, as a 16-year-old high school boy confessed a claw hammer attack upon a housewife, the city council took action in the matter of allegedly increasing assaults upon Los Angeles women. The council adopted a resolution asking the city attorney whether a reward legally may be posted by the city for the capture of the "scantling-slugging" and a second resolution calling for a comparison of sex crime records now and a year ago.

The second resolution was somewhat in the nature of a political attack upon Los Angeles' "reform mayor," Fletcher Bowron, who is at present at odds with the council. Councilman James Hyde criticized the action of the mayor's new police commission in summarily retiring 23 high-ranking police officers.

The claw hammer attacker was Howard James Le Compte. Police said he confessed "latterly" Mrs. Betty Natale, 27, when surprised burglarizing her home. She is in serious condition.

Study Clues
Police said they found a torn tan topcoat in Bushane's room. They said he only laughed when they asked him how it became torn.

The attacker of Miss Bogard was described by witnesses as having worn a similar type of coat. Police said Bushane's room was just around the corner from a church, in the yard of which were pieces of lumber, including lengths of wood similar to those used in the two bludgeoning attacks.

Bushane also maintained another room in a building only two blocks from the spot where Miss Bogard was attacked, police said.

Plans Revealed For Concert

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP)—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes announced today that Marian Anderson, Negro contralto, will sing April 9, Easter Sunday, at a free and open-air concert at the Lincoln Memorial.

Ickes' statement came after weeks of controversy arising from refusal of the Daughters of the American Revolution to allow Miss Anderson use of Constitution Hall for a concert. The concert will be broadcast nationally, officials said.

"...To Live Happily Ever After"

Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, two of Hollywood's most popular stars, were "at home" on Gable's ranch today following their surprise wedding last night in Kingman, Arizona. It was just a week ago that the former Mrs. Gable divorced her actor husband at the latter's request. Both Gable and Miss Lombard have been married previously. . . . Clark twice, Carole once.

CLARK GABLE, CAROLE LOMBARD HOME AFTER ARIZONA WEDDING

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—(UP)—Grinning from ear to ear, Clark Gable rode triumphantly back to Hollywood today with a bride, blonde Carole Lombard.

It was at 6:15 last night when Mrs. Elizabeth Peters picked up her telephone here and heard a boisterous laughing male voice exclaim:

"Hello, mom, this is your new son-in-law."

Her son-in-law and her daughter Carole were in Kingman, Ariz., in the study of the Rev. Kenneth Engle who had just made them man and wife.

Secret Affair
They had motored there secretly in Gable's white roadster; had been married in Engle's Methodist church chapel before two witnesses, and after the phone call, started back. They arrived in Hollywood early this morning and announced they would receive the press at Miss Lombard's home in Bel-Aire late today.

Viola Olsen, Kingman marriage license clerk, was so thrilled when the film lover and his blonde fiancée walked into the court-house at dusk that she couldn't speak.

Gable grinned and said: "I'm Clark Gable. I'd like to get a marriage license."

He gave his age as 38. Miss Lombard said she was 29, and an actress. The clerk drove with them to the Rev. Engle's rectory. The young minister called in his wife, and went next door for Howard Cate, mathematics teacher in the Kingman high school. Gable and Miss Lombard sat in the rectory parlor, whispering.

After the Methodist marriage service, Gable kissed his bride.

NEWLYWED TAKES ADVANTAGE OF RIGHT TO CHANGE HER MIND

Strange, indeed, is the arduous course of true love; rough and rocky the road. Subject of countless thousands of odes and basis for many puns, Love "in person" is frequently stranger, even funnier than the synthetic type.

This week, the Rev. Harry E. O'wings, was visited early in the evening by a middle-aged couple desiring to enter into the bonds of matrimony. The man was several years older than the bride-to-be.

Is It Too Late?
The ceremony was completed, to the apparent satisfaction of all concerned, when the bride turned to the minister.

"Is it too late to change my mind, now that it's all over," she queried.

Don't forget, that the rites had been performed, the bride had

'Stakes Winners Face Jury Quiz

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(UP)—United States District Attorney Benjamin Harrison today subpoenaed all Southern California winners in the recent Irish Sweepstakes to appear before the federal grand jury for questioning. Harrison said approximately 75 subpoenas had been issued.

He said the move was part of a widespread investigation into the sale of sweepstakes tickets and the dissemination of news concerning the lottery in the United States.

Harrison said between $8,000 and $9,000,000 was collected annually in Southern California for bonafide and "faked" Irish Sweepstakes tickets.

Most of the 75 persons subpoenaed were small prize winners in last week's Irish Sweepstakes.

FDR Names Comptroller

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today nominated former Sen. Fred H. Brown of New Hampshire, a liberal Democrat, to be comptroller-general, succeeding Republicans in that office who often have criticized New Deal actions.

The comptroller-general passes on validity of federal expenditures.

Brown's nomination has been expected for several weeks, but was believed to have been held up by Mr. Roosevelt until Congress completed action of the government reorganization bill. That measure was sent to the White House yesterday.

Would Ban Office
Mr. Roosevelt's original reorganization proposal called for abolition of the comptroller-general and substitution of an auditor-general who would make a post-audit of all government expenditures.

U. S. INDICTS EIGHT FIRMS IN SWINDLE

NEW YORK, March 30.—(UP)—Twenty-four men and eight corporations were under indictment by a federal grand jury today on a charge of swindling thousands of persons out of a total of $1,150,000.

Nine men and two corporations were indicted in the first group, accused of getting $850,000 through deception and illegal practices. The leader was alleged to have been Donald P. Kenyon, who died last December.

The group included Lucian A. Eddy, a former vice president of the Equitable Trust Company and Samuel Sobel, member of the law firm of Sobel & Brand and Stanley R. Wayne, a lawyer of the same firm. The corporations named were Kenyon & Co., Inc., and Weil management Company, Inc.

Stock Valueless
The group was accused of gaining control of companies then taking their capital, replacing sound securities in investment trust companies with worthless substitutes and selling valueless stock at inflated prices to its own companies.

The second group consisted of 15 men and six corporations, and was said to have been led by Martin A. Leach, alias Robert E. Lancaster, now serving a grand larceny term in San Quentin prison in California.

The group was charged with swindling $300,000 by misrepresenting the value of its companies and their earnings. Leach had managed to buy a seat on the New York produce exchange after jumping bail in California. He was later arrested in Florida.

The groups were not connected with each other in their operations.

Continue Hearing On Publicity Bill

The senate committee on municipal corporations today continued until April 5 hearing on a bill by Senator J. C. Garrison, D., Modesto, to permit cities or counties to pay for publicizing election propositions.

Chairman Harry Westover, D., Santa Ana, opposed the bill on grounds that "in the one experience with such a situation in Orange county, I was led to believe that the use of public funds by any executive body to put across an election measure is ill-advised."

L. A. Jury Gets Werner Case

LOS ANGELES, March 30.—(UP)—The third jury to hear grand theft and bribery charges against Erwin P. Werner and his wife, Helen M. Werner, once powerful political figures, today began its deliberation on the case.

The first jury disagreed and the second convicted them, but they won a new trial on appeal. The Werners are accused of having posed as bribe agents in 1937 in an effort to steal $2500 from a former client.

COURT'S VERDICT UPHELD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 30.—(UP)—The manslaughter conviction of Charles Pollock, 39, of Miranda, Humboldt county, was upheld here today by the third court of appeal. Pollock was found guilty of slaying Alexander Frazier, also of Miranda, but the first judgment of the Humboldt county court was reversed because of failure to prove the crime occurred in the county.

SAYS ITALY IMPRISONED

COSENZA, Italy, March 30.—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini told a cheering crowd in the great Lictor Square today that Italy would not "remain a prisoner in the Mediterranean" and that its claim to special concessions as regards the Suez canal had to be satisfied.

Praising the "defeat of Bolshevism" in the Spanish civil war and the role Italians played in it, Mussolini said that Italy was ready to stand up for her claims. "Speeches are only words if they are not accompanied by facts," he said.

Denounces Pacts
Then, in what his hearers took as a reference to France's attitude on his "aspirations," Mussolini pounded his right fist on the stone railing of the government building balcony from which he spoke and said:

"Pacts or no diplomatic pacts, we will never resign ourselves to remaining prisoners in the Mediterranean."

Mussolini arrived this morning on a tour of Calabria, during which he was expected to make several speeches bearing on the refusal of Premier Edouard Daladier of France to take the first step in French-Italian negotiations.

May See Goering
As Mussolini left Rome by special train last night, 250,000 men of the classes of 1918 and 1919—the entire 1918 class and one-third of the 1919 class—were reporting for army duty.

It was reported that before he returned to Rome he might meet Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Adolf Hitler's right-hand man, at Naples.

In some Fascist quarters it was even rumored that Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Nationalist Spain might attend this meeting, or meet them later at some convenient point for a conference on Italian-Germany-Spanish policy.

"More Cannons"
The 250,000 men whom Mussolini called to the colors—180,000 of the 1918 class and 70,000 of the 1919 class—were moving to their barracks even before he left Rome. They carried banners inscribed "Tunisia-Djibouti-Suez Canal," "The Mediterranean is Ours" and "More Cannons, More Battleships, More Airplanes." They were given uniforms and sent by train to their destinations.

The men are those born in 1918 and the first four months of 1919. It was understood that their call was a normal one for this time of year and that they had received notification of their liability for training service several weeks ago.

Italian disappointment at the tone of Daladier's speech was plain. Morning newspapers concentrated on the Nationalist victory in Spain. They published only excerpts from the French premier's speech and without comment.

DALADIER ENDS ERA OF CONCESSIONS

PARIS, March 30.—(UP)—Premier Edouard Daladier's speech on Italy's aspirations marked the end of a period of blanket concessions to European dictators but left a way open for friendly negotiations, it was said in diplomatic quarters today.

Daladier made it clear that France stood by previous agreements—specifically the 1935 pact which Italy denounced—and had nothing to offer. It was up to Mussolini to state what he desired.

Gets Backing
His firmness had a significant background—the British announcement of a major increase in the army, the current visit of Viscount Gort, chief of the British general staff, to Gen. Maurice Gamelin, generalissimo of the French armies, and a prospective visit to London next week by Guy La Chambre, French air minister, and a group of French air force staff officers to discuss war plans with the British.

Further, Daladier laid the diplomatic basis for any future Italian negotiations by publishing the texts of Italy's secret note of December 17, denouncing the 1935 agreement, and the French reply of December 25. He maintained that the French had

GOP LAYS GROUNDWORK FOR WAR ON OLSON BUDGET PLANS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 30.—(UP)—A barrage of critical questions faced the Olson administration today as the Republican assembly minority laid the groundwork for a smashing attempt to lower the governor's $557,000,000 biennial budget.

The assembly set 2:30 p.m. for a second session as a committee of the whole to discuss the huge supply bill. It was apparent the economy bloc was gathering ammunition to use in behalf of 200 budget amendments to be proposed. Democrats were frankly worried because the budget bill cannot be passed unless all the Bourbons and also 10 Republicans swing into line behind the governor.

Ways and Means Committee Chairman Ben Rosenthal, Director of Accounts Fred Links and administration department heads stood the brunt of criticism from a rotating group of Republican spokesmen who questioned each budget item and demanded answers why economies should not be made.

A ways and means minority report, objecting to action of the committee in recommending the budget bill without change, itemized suggested savings of more than $30,000,000. Chief slashes were in relief, from $72,000,000 to $50,000,000; refusal to open 1444 new jobs, reduce requested increases for educational and mental institutions, and defer salary raises, two new state buildings, and increased state services.

Rosenthal defended the governor for preparing "an honest budget" and declared it was designed for the entire 24 months to prevent deficiency bills two years from now "as there were this session."

Charges contained in an assembly resolution that husbands and wives both occupy high-salaried posts in federal and state relief agencies brought an immediate declaration from Governor Olson that he would make a thorough investigation to determine whether more than one person of a family are employed by the State Relief Administration.

"If such employments are found to exist, one or both will be immediately discharged," the governor said, "I do not believe that two members of the same family should be given employment in the SRA."

Assemblyman Lee T. Bashore, R., Glendora, who sponsored the assembly resolution seeking a legislative investigation on the nepotism charges, declared that in one case the combined salaries of a husband and wife exceeded $660 a month.

POSTPONE HEARINGS ON PARK PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, March 30.—(UP)—Hearings on the proposed John Muir-Kings Canyon national park in California were postponed today because of lack of a quorum in the House public lands committee. The hearings will be continued tomorrow.

Rep. B. W. Gearhart, R., Calif., who introduced the bill calling for establishment of the park, told reporters that he intended to push for his passage.

Reverses Stand
This was reversal of his position yesterday when he announced he had withdrawn sponsorship of his own bill.

"I was upset yesterday," he said, "because of differences of opinions expressed by my constituents. I'm convinced now, however, that to delay passage of the park bill merely would be a surrender to selfish interests who desire to exploit the area."

300 Aviation Mechanics Threaten Strike

NEWARK, N. J., March 30.—(UP)—The Airline Mechanics Association threatened today to call a nationwide strike of all members employed by Eastern Air Lines.

James Smith, chairman of local 26 of the union, said demands for pay increases had been submitted to the company with April 14 as the deadline for acceptance. If the demands are not accepted by noon of that day 300 mechanics in all Eastern Air Lines ports all over the country will cease work, he said.

Mechanics are now paid on a sliding scale based upon ability. The increases demanded are approximately 10 cents an hour. Apprentices now earn 39 to 42 cents an hour and other mechanics received proportionately more up to master mechanics who get from 90 cents to $1 an hour.

Woman, Hit By Bicycle, Injured Seriously; Others In Accidents

A bicycle-pedestrian accident on North Flower street at 4:05 p. m. yesterday resulted in serious injuries for Mrs. Violeta Erickson, 65, of 525 South Orange street, Orange.

Rushed to St. Joseph hospital by the Orange County Ambulance service, Mrs. Erickson was reported in a serious condition this morning of a brain concussion and possible skull fracture. She had not regained consciousness and her condition was such that X-ray pictures have not been made to determine the extent of her injuries.

North of City

The bicycle rider, Glen Osborne, 27, of 802 South Garnsey avenue, Santa Ana, was going south on Flower street. According to reports, Mrs. Erickson stepped directly in the path of the bicycle from behind a passing car. The accident occurred on a curve a half mile north of Santa Ana boulevard.

Two Japanese, Yoshisuke Ueyama, 55, of Rt. 2, box 110, and K. Nakamo, 610 East First street, Los Angeles, were injured this morning when their car and a dump truck operated by Rex D. Henner, 35, of Orange, Rt. 1, box 675, crashed at Harbor boulevard and Seventeenth street. The truck, which was going east on Seventeenth street, was turned over in the crash, while the machine of the Japanese, going south on Harbor, ran into a field.

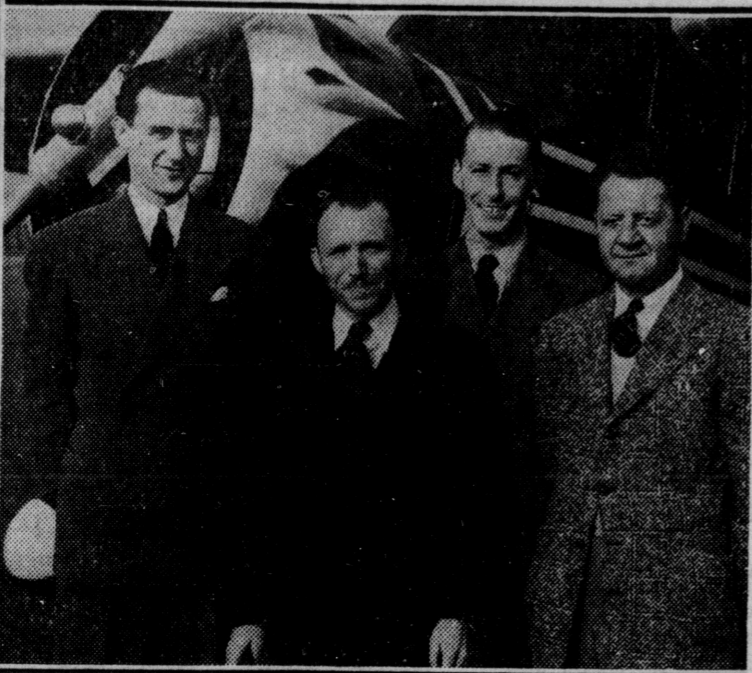

Suffers Shock

Ueyama suffered a deep cut on his head, while Nakamo suffered shock. Henner was not injured. Horace Inge of the highway patrol investigated the crash. The injured were taken to St. Joseph hospital by the Orange County Ambulance service.

Heigh-Ho! Who's For the Fair?

er, Arthur E. Johnston, 64, also of Minneapolis, was involved in a collision with a truck and semi-trailer operated by Charles E. Harker, 29, of 918 Kilson drive, Santa Ana, yesterday, at Euclid avenue and Manchester boulevard, was reported improved today. Miss Johnston suffered a broken right arm and possible fractured jaw. Johnston suffered cuts and bruises. Harker was not hurt. Sergeant George Peterkin investigated the crash for the highway patrol.

Four Hurt In City

Lyman D. Sherwood, 42, of 652 Golden avenue, Fullerton, was charged with drunk driving after his car and one driven by Wilbur L. Patton, 20, of 702 North Hall street, Fullerton, crashed on 101 highway between Vermont and Los Angeles streets at 8:40 o'clock last night. No one was injured. Officers J. W. Holcomb and Lloyd Groover of the highway patrol investigated.

Four persons were injured in Santa Ana traffic mishaps, according to reports yesterday to police of three collisions. At Wisteria and Orange, last night, cars driven by C. M. Trusty, 56, 317 Wisteria, and Robert Jacques, 30, 501 East 17th, collided. Trusty suffered nose cut, Paul Corbin, 25, Finley hotel, cut lip and head. Officers George Boyd and Burnette Lane gave first aid.

Boy Also Injured

Mrs. Carry Nolan, 38, Los Angeles Negro, suffered bruises and shock yesterday afternoon at Second and Parton, when cars driven by Rafael Nolan, 1902 West Second, and Ray McNeen, 18, Route 4, Anaheim, collided. Enola Lundak, 16, also was injured, suffering cuts. Officers E. A. Hershey and Daniel M. Jones investigated. Mrs. S. D. Koonce, 820 East Fourth, said yesterday a man driving a car backed into her car the night before, breaking two fog lamps. She asked police to find out the name of the registered owner of a car bearing license 5-X-9304. She said the car bearing that license collided with hers. The car is registered to Guy Leroy Shiffer, Route 4, Bear road, Santa Ana.

ASK UTILITIES QUIT RETAILING

Demand that the Southern California Edison company and the Southern Counties Gas company go out of the retail appliance business and operate solely as utilities was made here today by the newly formed Orange County Appliance Dealers association. Charging "unfair competition," the body, made up of representative business men of the county and a branch of the Retail Furniture Association of Southern California, framed the demand at a meeting here yesterday afternoon at Danger's cafe.

Executive Committee
C. W. Hill, refrigerator merchant, chairman of the meeting yesterday, announced the following members of the executive committee of the association: Nelson Edgar, representative of the Turner Radio company; Frank Maroney, furniture dealer; Ray Couch, representative of Chandler's Furniture company; and George Horton, representing the Horton Furniture company.

The association asserted the utilities are operating in direct competition with their customers for electric power and gas and that the merchants "are unable to compete with the utilities who use the profits of the utility sales to subsidize the operation of a retail establishment."

"Paying Utilities"
One of the members at the meeting said: "We're paying the utilities to stay in business and compete with us."

It was pointed out at the meeting by Larry Kyllingstad, field representative of the Southland association, that the gas company did not sell retail merchandise in the City of Los Angeles and that the municipally owned light company did not sell appliances.

Several representatives at the meeting spoke against what they termed the "regular practice of utility company employees demanding discounts on merchandise purchased from local stores" and it was indicated that the group would request the utilities to ask employees to refrain from the custom in the future.

They'll Come Back — Unless!

The city is about to be purged and purified—just before election.

Word has been passed along to the racetrack bookies, promoters of slot machines and the like, that they are to quietly fade out of Santa Ana during the rest of the campaign, to save political embarrassment of their official friends.

My campaign against them has accomplished that much. The rest of it—keeping them out—must be accomplished by votes; votes for the one candidate who is pledged to keep them out; votes for—

HEARS TALK ON STATES RIGHTS

The rights of states as set out in the federal constitution was ably discussed by Ralph Smedley, founder of Toastmasters clubs, at the Wednesday night meeting of the club that bears his name.

D. H. Tibbals explained and illustrated the proper form and methods of good speech making. George Perkins in his "Adventuring in the Dictionary" gave an interesting account of derivations of words and their frequent change in meaning.

Cost of Crime
George Angus contended that it is illogical to criticize the cost of relief and welfare, heavy as it is, when the annual cost of crime in the United States exceeds 15 billion dollars.

Harvey Emley pointed out that only in democratic countries is it possible for the people to express ideas and that here we not only advance our own ideas but also to invite all other citizens to do likewise. C. G. Roseberry suggested that Orange county should be made a model for the other counties in the United States.

President W. O. Mendenhall presided. Morace O. Ensign acted as toastmaster and David Cherry as general critic. Nominees of officers for the coming year are Dr. J. P. Davis for president, George Perkins for vice president, D. H. Tibbals for secretary-treasurer, Dr. Mark Dalton for sergeant at arms and Fred Walker for deputy district governor. The Rev. Gerald Nash and Ernest Layton were guests of the club.

SEPARATE LICENSE FOR EACH LIQUOR BEVERAGE IS PROPOSED

SACRAMENTO, March 30.—The senate interim committee on liquor sales problems today was considering a proposal to require the state's 17,000 off-sale dealers in wine and beer to procure a separate license for each beverage.

Chairman D. Jack Metzger, R., Red Bluff, made the proposal, declaring "the legislature has to find ways of raising money." Emil Hoerschner, representative of the California Retail Stores association, said he believed the majority of dealers would take out two licenses in place of the one now costing them $10 annually.

Hard liquor off-sale licenses would increase in value from $100 annually to $300 or $400 under the committee's control bill, Henry S. Epstein of the Northern California Retail Liquor Dealers' association testified.

The bill would allow no new licenses for distilled spirits and where there is one or more dealers to each 1500 persons.

Under the proposed changes, most counties in the state would have an eventual decrease, while others would remain the same. Nima would increase except Alpine county, where there are no bars now and one would be permitted. The county has only 241 population.

Off-Sale Premises
The board of equalization revealed that Orange county, with a total population of 118,674 now has 114 premises licensed for off-sale distilled spirits and would be permitted the same number of licenses when the final quota is reached.

Rural area figures for on-sale licenses for distilled spirits and wine show that Orange county, with a population outside larger cities of 88,352 (1930 census), has an existing ration of 1 to 508 of premises to population, has a total of 174 licensed premises and would be permitted 174 when the final quota is reached.

36 Places Licensed
In Santa Ana, there are 10 premises licensed for on-sale distilled spirits, 26 premises licensed for on-sale beer and wine only, for a total of 36. The 1930 census showed a population of 30,322, making a ratio of 1 to 841 premises to population. Under the proposed amendment, there would be permitted 36 licensed premises when the quota is reached.

Warns Against "Dead" Car Plate

"If you damage a license plate of your car in such manner that the license number cannot be read any more, the plate is just as 'dead' as though you didn't."

I HATE TO DANCE WITH A DAMP SEAL

The girl friend told me that—and I can sympathize with her. Matter of fact, it's no fun for me to feel like a damp seal—with my top-shirt all clammy from perspiration. That's why I wear a Hanes Undershirt. Gentlemen, you need a blotter when it's hotter. And that's what a Hanes Undershirt is! It soaks up perspiration with its soft, absorbent knit. Evaporation is even and rapid. You actually feel cooler all over... and your top-shirt keeps neater and fresher! See your Hanes Dealer today, and notice the length of a Hanes Undershirt. There's plenty of tail to tuck deep inside your shorts and save uncomfortable wadding at the waist. Get Hanes Shorts, too—full-cut broadcloth. Or try Hanes Crotch-Guard Sports and Shorts. P. H. Magnificent Sixth Symphony Feature For S. A. Concert

Success had a bitter taste to Peter Tschaikowsky who composed his chronicle of disillusionment in the magnificent Sixth Symphony which will be the orchestral feature of tonight's Federal Symphony concert at the high school auditorium, interpreted by the combined Santa Ana and Long Beach orchestras, under direction of Leon Eckles, well known conductor.

Tschaikowsky's String Quartet, Opus 30, (3rd movement), the beloved "Londonderry Air," arranged by Frank Bridge, noted English composer, and the nostalgic "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," arranged by Bland, will be featured by string soloists Hugh Merrick, 1st violin, Dudley Burris, 2nd violin, Gordon Groves Jr., viola and Edwin Geber, cello.

Orchestra Prepared

Other orchestral selections programmed are Brahms' profound "Tragic" overture, the pictorial tone poem, "The Moldau," by Smetana, and Mozart's "Impresario" overture.

"Numerous patrons of the federal concerts who, as avowed devotees of Tschaikowsky, have clamored for a repeat performance of his great 'Pathétique' (Sixth) Symphony, a program feature on an earlier concert program, will find the orchestra prepared to give the sublime score another authentic reading," said Eckles. "It is unquestionably the most profoundly stirring of his works. As the composer left no suggestion as to what his possible program for this Symphony might have been, it has remained for his interpreters, and those who were intimately acquainted with him during his lifetime, to describe in one way or another what may have been his incentive for writing this truly monumental work of sorrow and despair."

The concert, sponsored by the local Business Men's Association, is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:15 p. m.

Costa Mesa P.-T. A. Will Install

Pinkley, secretary; and Mrs. Gunning Butler, treasurer. Mrs. Henry Abrams is the retiring president of the organization. Mabel Seeds Spizy of Santa

200 CONTESTANTS EXPECTED FOR ANNUAL EASTER EGG HUNT

Preparations are being made to handle more than 2500 contestants in the annual Easter Egg hunt at the Municipal Bowl on Saturday, April 8, according to Franklin P. Nickney, scoutmaster for Rotary Boy Scouts, who are sponsoring the event.

Nickney reports that merchants of the city have donated more than 75 prizes which will be awarded to the egg hunters of three divisions. The contestants will be divided into three divisions to avoid possible injury to the smaller children. One class will be children up to five years of age. The second class will be children up to 10 and the third class those up to the age of 15 years. The first class will start hunting for eggs at 10 o'clock; the second class at 10:30 and the third at 11 o'clock.

All Assured of Eggs
Scoutmaster Nickney declared today that every child entering the contest is assured eggs.

The city is co-operating to the extent of turning over the park to the troop and will furnish officers to aid the 30 members of the Scout troop in policing the field. The NYA band will furnish music and will parade through the business district before going to the bowl.

More than 500 pounds of candy Easter eggs will be distributed for the contestants. In addition

But the chick was dead. Her mother, a Rhode Island red, accidentally stepped on her this morning, injuring her fatally. The six baby chicks are doing fine; all are normal.

SAFETY DRIVE
CONTEST ENDS

Santa Ana's police traffic safety campaign contest, in connection with a campaign to make Santa Ana one of the safest cities in the United States for 1939, closes tonight with winners scheduled to be announced tomorrow.

The contest, calling for the presentation of five prizes to boys, five prizes to girls, who have obtained signatures of the greatest number of Santa Ana motorists promising to aid in the highway safety program of the city, has been conducted among local school children. Approximately 7000 safety pledge cards were distributed to motorists by the children after obtaining the motorists' signatures. The signatures are placed on file at police headquarters, according to Police Chief Floyd W. Howard.

Prizes Donated

To the first prize winners, boy and girl, will go $10 cash, each, one of the prizes being donated by the Brown and Wagner Colonial funeral chapel and the Winkler Memorial funeral chapel, jointly. The second prize will be a free airplane ride for each second prize winner, the prize being given by the Eddie Martin airport. If desired, a parent of each of the children may accompany the winner on the trip.

Third prizes are an Edison company reading lamp and a $5 merchandise from Vandermast's. Fourth and fifth prizes were cash donations by safety-minded citizens, Chief Howard said, and they asked that their names not be revealed. Fourth prizes are $4 each to boy and girl, fifth prizes, $3.50 each. Chief Howard asked that prize winners, announced tomorrow, appear at police headquarters Saturday at 10 a. m. to get their prizes. On Tuesday, April 4, a theater program will be given free by Walker's theater for all children active in the contest.

Jews Flee Danzig; Nazi Coup Feared

DANZIG, March 30.—(UP)—Jews are fleeing from Danzig in fear this free city of 400,000 population and 600 square miles will fall into the hands of Adolf Hitler.

The Jewish community today is negotiating to send a group of 50 children to England as the next step in evacuation of the entire Jewish population except aged men and women.

Almost $500 have left since 1933 and the 2500 remaining have redoubled their efforts to leave since the Nazis destroyed Czechoslovakia and annexed Memel and began making threatening gestures toward Danzig.

About 1000 Jews are expected to migrate in the next few months if the present plans materialize.

The plight of those who remain will be similar to the fate of Jews in Germany regardless of whether or when the Reich moves to recover Danzig. All of the main anti-Jewish legislation introduced by Hitler in Germany is in effect in the pro-Nazi regime now controlling the free city.

Three months ago lawyers and doctors not classed as Aryans were ordered to cease practice. Jewish skilled workers and clerks have gradually been squeezed out of their jobs as Danzig firms get orders to "aryanize" their organizations. Only a few Jewish shops remain open. Only a few merchants whose business is important to the port have been permitted to continue trading.

"FDR Followed Plan"

That former President Herbert Hoover had stressed the necessity of overcoming this situation, and that it was considered so important by President Roosevelt that it was incorporated in his inaugural address, indicated that at last this country was ready to discuss the situation. The first Pan-American conference in 1933 aided in winning the confidence of Latin America, and in the establishment of the increased good feeling at the recent Lima conference, she explained.

Some of the main points in the Lima conference were discussed, especially the solidarity pact and its value, which is greater to the United States than to the Latin American countries. Mrs. Tessa-mann declared, because of our greater vulnerability. She closed with a warning as to the difficulties in maintaining the present cordial relations, in view of our disapproval of some of the actions of Latin America, particularly Mexico.

Some half hundred of those in attendance remained for the luncheon served at noon in the clubhouse peacock room under chairmanship of Miss Louise Tubbs. The afternoon program was to continue with short talks by state board members, and by Frederick T. Chamberlain, Huntington Beach elementary school superintendent, on "To Be or Not to Be."

It is estimated that motorists who make a practice of getting away to a quick start at a traffic light wastes enough gasoline in three such rapid getaways to operate his car one mile.

Huge Clipper Ship With 36 On Board Ends Flight To Honolulu

HONOLULU, March 30.—(UP)—The California Clipper, Pan American Airways big flying boat, landed at Pearl Harbor at 5:50 a. m. today on its maiden commercial flight from San Francisco to the Orient, carrying 25 passengers and a crew of 11.

It was the largest load of commercial passengers ever carried on a transoceanic flight. The ship made the 2410 mile flight from the Treasure Island base at San Francisco bay on schedule.

Veteran Commander

In command of Veteran Capt. J. H. Tilton, the 74-passenger capacity Boeing ship averaged approximately 150 miles an hour on the San Francisco-Honolulu hop.

The California clipper, the first of the new super-planes to enter regular trans-Pacific service, took off from San Francisco bay yesterday afternoon while a throng of visitors to the Golden Gate International Exposition watched from the Treasure Island shoreline.

The San Francisco-Honolulu flight was made in 15 hours. The takeoff yesterday was at 5:20 p. m.

The 25 passengers, representing several nationalities and the worlds of finance, industry and international relations, slept during most of the crossing in the spacious, light green berths which help make the 42½ ton ship a virtual "flying hotel."

Hitting the woodpile for games of 927, 1066 and 1044, the Alliance Mutual Life company's crack bowling team smashed into first place in the annual Orange County Bowling tournament here last night.

Totalling 3037 for their three games, the Alliance Life's skippers now seem virtually assured of the team championship. They lead the field by almost 200 pins. Twelve more five-man squads take a pot-shot at the score to-night and Friday but most observers believe the insurance firm is "in".

Heading tonight's assault will be the Main Cafeteria quintet, captained by Pat Kelley and anchored by Henry Christman. The Main Cafeteria is leading the Santa Ana Major league this season and will be dangerous. Others on the team-event shift at 8 o'clock are the Oyster Leaf Cafe of Anaheim, the Fighting Irish of Orange, Social of Huntington Beach, Adair's Market of Huntington Beach and Laguna Recreation.

At 10:10 and 11, doubles and singles shooters have their fling at the following leaders:

OREGON CHAMPIONS HOME; BAND FAILS

PORTLAND, Ore.—(UP)—Oregon's national collegiate basketball champions came home to a heroes' welcome today but found phonograph records substituted for a brass band. The mayor forgot the key to the city, possibly in the excitement.

Fifteen hundred yelling citizens jammed Union station to cheer the arrival of the University of Oregon's basketball team, triumphant over Ohio State in the National Collegiate Athletic association finals in Evanston, Ill.

The team arrived aboard the Union Pacific streamlined, City of Portland, after pausing at The Dalles, 84 miles east of Portland, where forward John Dick's home owner presented him a gold wrist watch.

Instead of a band at the station, a public address system ground out phonograph music but bands were promised in a downtown parade later today.

"The city's here. Take her away, boys," shouted Mayor Joseph Carson, lost in the forest of Oregon players whose average height is nearly a foot above the mayor's titlitude of five feet, six inches.

Somewhere in the melee the gold statuette basketball player top the team's national trophy was broken.

Red Dutton, left, manager of New York Americans, and Conny Smythe, Toronto Maple Leaf pilot, get all hot and bothered on the ice of Madison Square Garden as they argue over 20-minute penalty called against Amerks Sweeney Schriener. Scene took place as Leafs defeated Amerks 2-0 to advance to semi-finals of Stanley Cup playoffs.

WHAT A REPORTER HEARS

A responsible source believes this department is passing up a scoop-of-the-year. He has information that Jack Sutherland will be Southern California's next football coach... definitely in 1940, if not sooner. Perhaps so, but it's hard to believe they'll fire a Rose Bowl winner, with another championship team just waiting to repeat.

Did you notice that Fullerton Jaycee's trackmen beat Chaffey 80-46 yesterday, without the relay? That was the same score (to the point) by which the Dons, trimmed Chaffey, if you throw out the relay, which Santa Ana won. Although Fullerton shellacked the Dons in their dual meet of two weeks ago by an 83-48 margin.

Coach John Ward has brought his squad along since then and it is going to give Fullerton some apprehensive moments at the All-Conference Championships next month. In fact, your Uncle Dudley has a sneaking hunch the Santa Anans are going to end Fullerton's domination that day because Riverside's powerful gang of sprinters is going to cut into Fullerton's points more than Santa Ana's. And Chaffey will eat into Fullerton's hurdle points.

Dr. Robert S. Wade of Santa Ana left by airplane last night for Mt. Hood, Ore. where the National Ski Championships (and U. S. Olympic team tryouts) are being held Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Wade's interest in skiing and slalom racing is inspired by his pre-medical days in Canada when he was intercollegiate champion in these sports. He is still an active competitor, participates regularly in ski events in Southern California. Sun Valley also knows him well.

Thumbnailed sketch of Jesse Sandoval Flores, sensational young Mexican pitcher from La Habra who looks like he'll be taking a regular turn for the Los Angeles Angels in the Coast league.

Born Huadaloja, Mexico, Nov. 2, 1916. Resident of La Habra's Corona Camp. Mexican descent both sides. Parents born in Mexico. Throws and bats right. Hair brown. Eyes brown. Height 5'11. Weight 171. Unmarried. Father is fruit picker. Jess attended school in La Habra and Fullerton, winning letters in baseball and track. Says he was happy in his first game as he felt it was the chance he had wanted. Won 10 to 2. With pennant winning club in '38 at Bisbee (Arizona-Texas league). Says baseball has meant better living for him and enabled him to help his father and mother, brothers and sisters. Says he owes most to his brother Ignacio, who caught him in sandlot games. Baseball ambition to win in Coast league. Otherwise to save enough for a home and family. Winter occupation, laboring.

EL CENTRO — San Diego closed Spring training camp today. The Padres played Oakland Saturday in the league opener. Manager Cedric Durst was still desirous of a pitcher to replace "Tiny" Chaplin killed in an auto accident last week.

SAN FRANCISCO — The Pittsburgh Pirates held their third straight win over the San Francisco Seals today after defeating the Coast league team, 5-0, yesterday in the fourth game of an exhibition series. Two leading Coast league pitchers, Bill Shores and Lou Koupal, failed to hold the Pirates who threatened for a time to set some sort of a record for double plays. They counted four in the first four innings. 000 210 002—5 8 2 Pittsburgh. 000 000 000—0 5 2 Heinzenman, Sewell and Berres; Shores, Koupal and Leonard.

VISALIA—Having split a two-game exhibition series, the Portland Beavers headed today for Sacramento and the Oakland Oaks for San Diego for the start of the Pacific Coast league season. The Beavers won from Oakland yesterday, 10-5, after losing the first game, 6-2.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Leo Durocher named Luke Hamlin and Bill Fossel to pitch for Brooklyn today against Detroit. The Dodgers had a free day yesterday while Detroit noted the Boston Bees 9-8. "School boys" Bowe pitched five innings and allowed eight hits and four runs.

DOUGGLES TRACKMEN FOR S. B. MEET

Confident his men will have no serious difficulty sweeping 'to their third straight Eastern conference track triumph, Coach John Ward proposes to juggle the Dons' lineup for tomorrow's dual meet at San Bernardino junior college.

Frank Stafford, the Montana miler, will be shifted into the half-mile. Jim Johnson, conference 880 king, will do his stuff in the 440 along with Joe Wolfe. This pair is shooting to break Frank Boyd's school record of 51.6; Ward thinks one or both will cut under 51 seconds. Capt. Don Hall, normally a two-miler, will run only the mile, leaving the longer race to Al Ranford, who was Los Angeles City prep champion at a mile last year. Ranford will take a crack at Rudy Holman's 10:12 record at the "marathon" distance. Ward thinks little Al can do it, especially since San Bernardino has a better than average two-miler to spur him on.

Vernon Worden, the Jaycee's promising all-around runner, will confine his activities to the low hurdles. He has been under the weather all week with a light attack of flu so Coach Ward may even keep him out of the hurdles. Ralph Metcalfe, six-foot high jumper, is definitely out of the meet. He left today for San Francisco with his parents to take in the Fair.

Santa Ana's trackmen were interested in results of the Fullerton-Chaffey dual meet at Ontario yesterday, won by the Yellowjackets, 80-46. Although Fullerton trounced the Dons, 83-48, Santa Ana wallowed Chaffey, 85-46 here last week. Davies of Fullerton won both dashes in 9.9 and 22 seconds. Young took the 440 in 51.5. Barnhold of Chaffey beat Fullerton's Walton in a 2:49 half. Sigler of Fullerton ran the mile in 4:51 and Bradley of Chaffey nosed out Peek in the high hurdles in 15.2 although the Fullerton man turned the tables in the lows in the fast time of 24.3. Peek's jump of 22:1 and Moody's toss of 179 feet in the javelin were the only outstanding marks in field events.

SONNENBERG BADLY HURT IN MAT BOUT

BOSTON — (UP)—Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth football player and professional wrestler, was reported in "fair" condition at the city hospital today after suffering head injuries in a "title bout" with Steve (Crusher) Casey of Sneem, Ireland, in Boston Garden last night.

The bout had gone over 30 minutes with the squat, powerful Sonnenberg having the advantage. Then the giant Irishman lifted Sonnenberg above his head and hurled him to the mat.

Sonnenberg landed head first. Casey pounced on him for the fall in 33:30. When Gus attempted to rise, he fell back unconscious. Handlers and the referee rushed to his side and after a hurried examination carried him from the ring. A doctor, who examined him in his dressing room, ordered him to the hospital, fearing a blood clot on the brain.

Casey was awarded the title when Sonnenberg was unable to continue.

'Italy' Gives 'Spain' A Hand

Yankee teammates Joe DiMaggio, left, and "Lefty" Gomez get in some off-the-diamond teamwork. The slugging outfielder bears down with a towel after a plunge in the ocean at St. Petersburg, Fla., where Yanks are training, while Gomez seems to protest, "not quite so hard, pal."

Angels Get Collins From Chicago Cubs

LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles has bought James (Rip) Collins, veteran first baseman, from the Chicago Cubs. The Angels broke training camp at Ontario last night after a fast workout featuring Eddie Mayo at second base.

Collins definitely takes care of the Angels' first base problem and gives Los Angeles a well-rounded, powerful club that will be favored to capture the pennant when the season opens Saturday.

"Rip" has been in the majors eight seasons, six of which were spent with the St. Louis Cardinals. He has a lifetime major league batting average of .298 and has appeared in three world series.

Collins was heart-broken over the deal that sent him back to the minors.

"Why didn't they tell me last winter that they didn't want me on the club," he asked. "I had two chances to manage minor league clubs, one of them paying $12,000 per year, as much as I made in the majors. They even went so far as to say I might make the ball club, and earn back the cut they were giving me. I never dreamed they'd let me loose. And 3000 miles from home, too!"

"Why didn't they do it over at Catalina, just after the boat had left? That would have been a little worse."

Collins joined the Cubs in 1936 with Roy Parmelee in a deal which sent Lon Warneke to St. Louis, but the Ripper never seemed to quite regain the punch which marked his work with the Cardinals from 1933 to 1936. He throws left handed but is a switch hitter, making two on the Los Angeles club, the other being his ex-teammate, Jack Rothrock.

The PAYOFF

(This is another of a series from major league baseball camps.)

By HARRY GRAYSON (NEA Service Sports Editor) LAKELAND, Fla.—Asked what he thought about launching his first season as manager of the Detroit Tigers, Delmar Baker replied philosophically and soundly.

"When a man takes a job of this kind," says the Oregon grower, "he must realize that his association with the club will terminate sooner or later."

From what you gather in the Detroit camp, which still discusses Mickey Cochrane's summary dismissal last summer, the sudden switch should not have been so surprising.

Veteran followers of the Tigers assert that Cochrane's contract would not have been renewed had Frank Navin lived.

In the spring of 1936, right after the Tigers had won their second pennant and a world championship, Navin pointed to Del Baker, jumping and shouting in the third base coach's box, and remarked

"This didn't set well with Briggs, who remarked: 'I didn't realize how differently they do things in the National league. Bill McKechie takes his sun bath at third base.'"

Baker, the old catcher, agrees with Charlie Willie Terry of the Giants that the secret of managing is knowing when to take a pitcher out.

Another important factor is being able to make up your mind. Baker uses Rudy York, the huge Indian, as an example.

"I advised York to play the outfield," the home spun Baker explains, "but as long as he wants to catch I'll let him catch until I am convinced that he doesn't belong there. Then I'll lose no time making a change."

LAYS NO BLAME TO YANKEES' DOOR Baker laughs at the suggestion that the Yankees should be broken up to balance the American league. He contends the Yankee organization had vastly more to do with building perennial world champions than Col. Jacob Ruppert's millions.

He points to King Kong Keller, who is to start in left field for the New Yorkers.

The Yankees signed Keller right under Clark Griffith's nose.

Keller swatted the ball for miles for three solid springs on the University of Maryland campus... 10 miles from Griffith stadium... and Clark Griffith or no one attached to the Washington club heard of him until he was Yankee property playing havoc with International league flingers and fences.

HIGH SCHOOL'S TRACKMEN NIP ORANGE, 81-23

Paced by Jim Johnson and Joe Wolfe of the junior college squad, long-legged Howard Elliott lowered his own all-time 440-yard record to 51.3 seconds yesterday while Santa Ana high school's track men were piling up an 81-23 victory over Orange at Clayton field. Orange's classy "B" and "C" teams atoned for their varsity's setback by trouncing the Little Saints, 62-29 and 42-36.

Johnson and Wolfe made no serious effort to finish the quarter ahead of Elliott, running as a conditioner for their meet with San Bernardino tomorrow, but they helped "pull" the Saint ace in front most of the way, Elliott churning by him on the backstretch to stop the clocks at 51.3.

Other performances were not exceptional although Jerome Duffy rambled a 10.4 "hundred," Wayne Piper a 22.9 furlong, Bob Frias a 2:8 half-mile and Stanley Jiles broad-jumped 21 feet in Class B. Orange showed a clever "B" sprinter, Bobby Fitschen, who did 10.4 and 23.5. Heim and Clark tied at 1:36.2 in the 660 and Martinez trimmed the Saint 70-yard hurdlers in 10 flat.

Saint Nine At Fullerton; Bray On Mound

With Benny Bray on the knoll and Ben Byland back of the plate, Santa Ana high school's baseball team goes to Fullerton tomorrow. When the clubs met here two weeks ago, Fullerton won, 6-5, in the last inning after the Saints had tied the score in the previous frame.

Coach Joe Koehler has had a tough time rebuilding the Santa Ana squad which was riddled by graduation, illness and injury but it made an improved showing against Woodrow Wilson last week and may be getting better. Bray apparently has won the first string pitcher's post.

OLD CHAMPIONS BOTH 50-1 AT MASTERS' MEET

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(UP)—The opening of the Master's tournament over the Augusta National Golf club course today was postponed until tomorrow because of a continuous rain that drenched the course. Clifford Roberts, general chairman of the club and the tournament, announced that the first 18 holes will be played tomorrow. The tournament will end Sunday as originally scheduled. This may necessitate playing 36 holes Saturday.

By HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent) AUGUSTA, Ga.—This is the Master's tournament, and the masters are 50 to 1.

That was the price quoted on Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen today when the field started playing in the sixth annual Masters' invitation tournament in this gentle old Southern town.

Down through the dogwood went Snead and Picard and Guldahl at 8 to 1. Up over the pine-needled crests went Nelson and Smith and Runyan at 12 to 1. Skirting the azaleas with their flaming bloom went Revolta and Hogan and Little and Demaret at 20 to 1.

All over the lovely course were golfers held at shorter price than that of the masters, Jones and Hagen. Coldy, and with no thought of the past, the bookmakers set their prices on the men who, not so many springs ago, dominated the fairways of the world.

He pledges EQUALITY OF JUSTICE FOR ALL and RIGID ENFORCEMENT.

The following quotation is the opinion of a state official in a position to inform others of Jim Metzgar's qualification and character:

"... As assistant commissioner... Mr. Metzgar has worked directly under my supervision. I have watched his work very carefully and have made a close study of his qualifications. His duties have been contacting the public on complaint matters, making inspections, general office routine and instituting prosecutions.

"From the start, it was apparent that Mr. Metzgar was particularly well qualified to handle these various activities in an efficient way. . . . I seldom have I seen a deputy with a more pleasing way of contacting individuals, as well as the public in general. He displayed unusual ability, evidencing a broad business and executive background.

ORANGE COMMUNITY P.-T. A. IN INSTALLATION; 120 PRESENT

ORANGE, March 30.—With almost 120 present, members and friends of the P.-T. A. of the Orange community installed new officers for the coming year following a dinner at the American Legion hall Wednesday night.

Mrs. Anna Linnartz, retiring president of the Orange Community Council of the P.-T. A., was installing officer, and presided over the first part of the meeting. A large lighted candle just in front of the platform, was the representation of "the light of all youth," she said, and as each president was installed, she lighted a taper from its flame. These were then placed in a white holder. Presidents' tapers were yellow and white, P.-T. A. colors.

Mrs. Linnartz presented the gavel to Mrs. Wallace W. Craney, new president of the Council, who then presided. Mrs. Craney presented Mrs. Linnartz with a gift from the council, a beautiful table cloth. An original poem by Mrs. C. B. Redmon to Mrs. Linnartz also was read.

The program was given under the direction of Mrs. E. G. Stinson, retiring president of intermediate P.-T. A. Miss Audrey Hancock sang "The Lord's Prayer," followed by three numbers by the high school quartet made up of Everett Ristow, John La Monica, Eldon Winters and John Stoner. Bobby Rhiel then played two numbers on his piano accordion, and Miss Hancock again sang "I Love Thee Dear" and "Snow," accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Ockels, who was pianist for the installation rites.

C. I. Thomas, Orange superintendent of elementary schools, spoke briefly, announcing the operetta to be given by intermediate pupils Friday night, entitled "Windmills of Holland." He also announced public schools' week, April 24 to 28, with a program at the high school to be given the evening of the latter date. Proceeds will go to the student loan fund.

Dr. Robert B. McAulay was speaker of the evening, his topic, "The New Meaning of the Word Child," which he said he found in European countries, especially Russia and Germany to be something which belongs to the state, and not to the family. He gave the Russians' figures concerning increase in education there, saying that in 1917 but eight millions were in school, but in 1937, 38 millions were attending school.

In Germany the child is first taught to be a good German citizen, he continued, and the first thing he must learn is to obey, first his parents then his teachers and country's leaders.

New officers of the various associations were Mrs. Wallace Craney, president of the council; Mrs. George Bickford, vice president; Mrs. M. J. Armstrong, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Norris Allen, recording secretary; Mrs. A. W. Ames, treasurer; Mrs. C. B. Redmon, historian and Mrs. Arthur Sipherd, parliamentarian. Officers of intermediate P.-T. A. are Mrs. Earl Wood, president; Mrs. George Franzen, vice president; Mrs. Percy Farmer, secretary; Mrs. George Horton, treasurer; Mrs. L. A. Bortz, historian. Maple street P.-T. A. officers are Mrs. George Carlson, president; Mrs. Paul Rogers, vice president; Mrs. Helen Thompson, secretary; Mrs. Park Walker, treasurer; Mrs. Karl Glasbrenner, historian.

West Orange officers are Mrs. Richard Robinson, president; Mrs. David French, vice president; Mrs. Jack Lampert, secretary; Mrs. E. C. Frevert, treasurer; Mrs. Roland Reed, historian. Killer officers are Mrs. James Ingles, president; Mrs. George Weimer, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Meisinger, secretary; Mrs. John Erickson, treasurer; Mrs. Carl Lucas, historian.

Lookout For Elm
Disease Is Urged

The state bureau of plant pathology asks residents of California to be on the alert for signs of the recently-discovered virus disease of elm trees.

The disease has not been found in California, but pathologists hold it responsible for the killing of thousands of elm trees in Ohio in recent years.

When leaves show a slight shriveling and become brittle, it indicates the virus has attacked the tree and should be reported, the bureau said. Roots and inner bark of the trunk also begin to rot.

The only method known to control the disease is the destruction of the affected tree or plant. This may appear "very drastic," the bureau said, but by doing so a large number of healthy trees may be saved.

Bill Hart jr., In Talk To Lions

ORANGE, March 30.—Bill Hart jr., was speaker yesterday at a meeting of the Lions club, giving intimate glimpses of life in Mexico as he viewed it during a stay which extended from November until a short time ago. Gordon X. Richmond acted as program chairman. Mexico City is much like Los Angeles in appearance said the speaker with striking differences in many customs.

Included in the differences in social customs, Hart mentioned conventions relative to dances and those observed when young men call on young girls, the mother always being present. He told of being present at a horse roundup where 150 colts were branded and the event was more or less in the nature of a fiesta.

Persons who drive with license plates which have expired run the risk of having their cars impounded, Hart said as he told of driving such a car belonging to a friend in Mexico. The policeman investigating the matter, proved to be a former resident of Orange and a former employee at the Santiago Orange Growers association plant and Hart was allowed to proceed on his way.

Food for the household in Mexico is purchased for the day only, said the speaker, and many of the laborers are interested in earning only enough for daily needs although they might have an opportunity to earn more.

Martell Thompson presided.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The three months business decline has come virtually to a standstill. Industrial production will fall only one point this month. It declined three points in February, three in January.

All government economists (and this means a dozen of Mr. Roosevelt's best guessers privately polled) are betting the upturn will begin now.

Their figures show a pick-up in several industries already (chemicals, furniture, machine tools, building materials). The machine tool pick-up is considered most important. This is the industry which furnishes the tools for industry. Its acceleration means industry is getting ready for bigger production. As the machine tool output was higher in March than in 18 previous months, the realists among the economists are confident a substantial expansion of business production is at hand.

The spending think so, too, for another reason. Their unpublished figures (which reach Mr. Roosevelt but not the newspapers) indicate Mr. Morgenthau is going deeper in the red. This means accelerated business according to their reckoning. They figure red ink greases the business machine,—what the treasury spends above what it takes in is the inflationary shot in the crankcase.

About $280,000,000 of this red ink grease was being put out at Mr. Morgenthau's filling station last October. The monthly deficit has increased until it is nearly $300,000,000 for March. In June or July, it will get up to $350,000,000 or $400,000,000, they expect. That is, the government will then be putting

Smedley To Give Memory Course

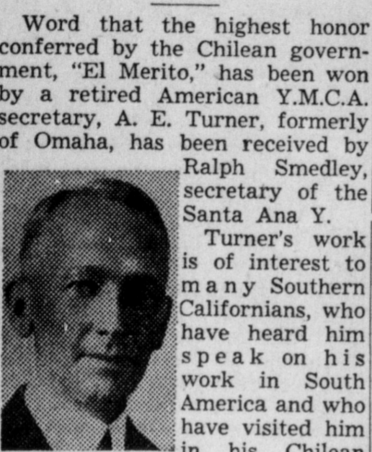

Using a well known system, Secretary R. C. Smedley of the Y. M. C. A. will give a course in memory training in the east lobby of the "Y" next Monday and the following Monday at 7:30 p. m. Smedley has taught this work to numerous groups in the past and has had a number of requests to present the course this spring. The course is open to both men and women. Smedley maintains that it is possible to give the essentials of a memory course in two evenings, leaving the student the rest of his life to apply the details. All interested are invited to attend the course.

In Play On "War Against War"

William Kent and Muriel McMillen, above, are one-third of the reputedly fine professional cast which appears here tomorrow at 8:15 p. m., in the Santa Ana high school auditorium in the stage play, "Those Who Have Lived," aimed at eclipsing war-mongers and stopping aggression. The drama is presented under auspices of the local American Legion post.

"Y" Secretary Wins Decoration From Chile

Word that the highest honor conferred by the Chilean government, "El Merito," has been won by a retired American Y.M.C.A. secretary, A. E. Turner, formerly of Omaha, has been received by Ralph Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y.

Striking Stage Drama Set For Tomorrow Night

Six persons make up the outstanding cast of "Those Who Have Lived," professional three-act stage play coming to the high school auditorium tomorrow at 8:15 p. m., according to Keith Davis, Americanization chairman of the local American Legion post, which is sponsoring the program.

William Kent and Muriel McMillen are two excellent members of the cast, he said. Kent has obtained roles at the Theater Guild in New York, has appeared in numerous stage plays. Highlight of Season "His presentation of the role of Winston Howard, attorney, in 'Those Who Have Lived,' is one of the highlights of the current theater season," Davis was informed.

The cast also includes Tony Raymour, William Bradley, Charline Wilson and Lenore Neil. One Los Angeles newspaper review, after the play presentation in Los Angeles, said "the cast scored tremendously." Another said the play was received with "wildly vociferous approval." The play, dealing with the terrific, devastating effects of war, is a plea for less patriotism, more humanity. Tickets are on sale at the junior high schools, high school and Ivie Stein's stationery store, 25 cents for children, 40 cents for adults.

SUPERVISORS TO 'LOOK OUT OF WINDOW' IF LANDS USED

The county supervisors cannot grant the request of Corona school boy farmers who want to rent lands from the county in Prado basin for farming.

But if the Corona boys went upon the lands without asking anybody's permission or paying any rent, they would probably find at least five Orange county supervisors "looking out of the window" in the other direction, members of the board hinted yesterday when they received a request from Corona to lease the ground.

The Corona boys are Future Farmers of the vocational agriculture classes in Corona schools. Orange county could not rent the land to them because doing so would imperil the county's relations with the federal government, under the flood control program, and also would bring about tax complications, it was said.

Complete County 'Review of Need'

Information compiled in Orange county in the Works Progress administration's "review of need" has been sent to Washington through the Los Angeles office of the WPA, it was announced today. Statistics on the survey will be announced later by Washington authorities.

Thirteen interviewers and two clerks were employed in Orange county for the survey, with 150 workers employed throughout Southern California. The survey was the first undertaken by the WPA to determine

MAZE OF CLUES AND SOLUTION OF CRIME PORTRAYED IN YARN

Details of clever detective work on the part of Orange county officers in solving a hit and run case in the fall of 1937 in which one boy was killed and another injured are revealed in an article written by Sergeant George Peterkin of the Orange county unit of the California Highway patrol and published in the March issue of the California Highway Patrolman.

The story, which is illustrated with a series of photographs taken by Peterkin, starts with the report of the accident by a tramp and of the discovery by Officer Jack Blakeley of the Laguna Beach police department of a small piece of glass from a 1934 Chevrolet at the scene of the accident.

Report an Accident Search of the area by Highway Patrol Officers Dan Adams and E. G. Sawyer and police of Laguna Beach and San Clemente failed to uncover a lead to the identity of the driver but a few nights later Officer James W. Holcomb, on duty at the highway patrol office, was informed by two men they wished to make a report of an accident, the article states. One of the men was the driver, the other the representative of an insurance company. Becoming suspicious, Holcomb notified Dan Adams, who took the driver into custody.

Inspecting his car, the officers found a hole in the windshield, a dented fender and the interior of the car covered with blood.

Wholly Reconstructed Starting with this, one thing led to another until the officers had completely reconstructed the accident as it had occurred, even to the manner in which the automobile had struck the bicycle. Pictures of the interior and exterior of the machine, as well as photographs of the dead boy's bicycle played vital roles in the final solution of the crime.

Confronted with all the evidence, the defendant pleaded guilty and is now serving a term in prison. Thirteen pictures, including one of Peterkin, are used to illustrate the magazine article.

Chapter AB Entertains Husbands at Dinner And Bridge

Dinner at Danigers followed by a delightful interval in the E. B. Sprague home, 1920 Victoria drive, formed the program Tuesday evening for a party at which members of Chapter AB, P.E.O., entertained their husbands.

Forty guests found places at U-shaped tables decorated with sweet peas. Mrs. Charles C. Brisco, new president of the chapter, extended welcome to the men of the party, with response given by Harry Hanson.

Receiving the group in the Sprague home were Mrs. Sprague, Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, Mrs. F. A. Henderson and Mrs. J. H. Metzgar. A cheery fire on the hearth, and quantities of flowers from the Sprague and Stephenson gardens added charm to the rooms. Mrs. E. D. White and Dr. J. E. Paul won prizes in contract bridge, while Mr. and Mrs. George Newcom were rewarded for scores in Chinese checkers.

Special guests of the evening were Mrs. Robert M. Knox of St. Paul, Minn., who has been visiting with the Harry Hansons, and Robert Northross jr.

Sorority Members Share Program of Variety

Sprays of exquisite peach blossoms lent an especially spring-like effect to the home of Miss Myrna Brooks, 310 Diamond avenue, Balboa Island, for Tuesday night's meeting of Phi Omega sorority. Mingled with the peach blossoms were stock and snapdragons, quite as eloquent of the season.

The program was one of variety and followed a business discussion and plans for a theater party at Pasadena Community Playhouse at an early date, Miss Hazel Dawson of the home economics department of Santa Ana Junior college, was guest speaker. Her excellent talk was on interior decorating, a subject which is being studied by the sorority. A general discussion followed, bringing out many additional matters of interest.

Three pledges, the Misses Sally Bouas, Evelyn Richards and Nancy Harrison, provided the remainder of the program, and took the group back to the Gay Nineties with their clever songs and dances of that era. They distributed artistic programs to set the scene for the amusing performance, and passed bags of peanuts and old-fashioned candies to continue the illusion of the past.

When Miss Brooks completed her hospitality with a spaghetti supper late in the evening, much of the talk was centered on plans for the April meeting of the sorority when its fifth anniversary will be celebrated.

Panhellenic Group Meets For Bridge Play

Hospitality expressed by the bright flowers used so decoratively at the Doris Kathryn Tuesday night, brought together a representative group of Panhellenic members to enjoy plans made for their entertainment by Mrs. Clarence McFadden of San Juan Capistrano, Miss Ruth Frothingham, Mrs. Newell Moore and Miss Reva Hawkins.

Small tables garlanded with the blossoms, were called into service for the refreshment interval which launched the meeting. Later the tables were requisitioned for bridge play, for which eight four-somes were arranged. The hostesses had selected pretty handkerchiefs as prizes, one awarded to holder of high score at each table.

Anniversary Program Pays Honor To G. A. R. Founding

Special significance was given this week's meeting of Sarah A. Rounds tent D. U. V. in Modern Woodmen hall. For as the meeting date nearest the anniversary of the founding of Grand Army of the Republic, it was made a truly patriotic occasion by the Daughters.

They invited allied organizations, Shiloh Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sedgwick Women's Relief Corps and Sons of Union Veterans, to join them in a covered dish luncheon at noon, and take part in a commemorative program. Patriotic Instructor Boren Baker planned this feature, and read an article on the institution of the National G. A. R. The actual anniversary date will be held April 6.

Mrs. Kate Johnston represented Shiloh Circle and read a poem appropriate to the occasion. Cordial greetings from the Relief Corps were brought by Mrs. Meta Caldwell, and E. A. Bell voiced greetings and co-operation of the Sons of Union Veterans. Closing the program, Mrs. Clara McCord of the Daughters' organization, read a paper, "The Stars and Stripes Enter Foreign Lands," showing how traditions of Civil War veterans were maintained by the entry of this country into the World War on the date of April 6, 1917.

This program, held in the dining room, was followed by the business meeting of the tent in the main lodge room under leadership of Mrs. Fannie Nau, president. Plans were made for a number of members to attend the meeting in Long Beach tomorrow at which all Southern California tents will be brought together.

Mrs. Baker reported having made ten calls in her line of work as patriotic instructor, with 28 other calls and 21 bouquets reported. Details were given of the enjoyable tea which Daughters shared earlier this month with Mrs. Mollie Ballard, 213 South Sycamore street.

Gift Shower Compliments Tomorrow's Bride

Continuing that round of pretty parties in compliment to Mrs. Louis Vorhis and her wedding tomorrow afternoon to Dr. Kyle A. Lyon, was an enjoyable affair at which Mrs. James M. Anderson received last night in her home, 725 South Garnsey street.

And bride of this pre-Easter season would have felt very much at home in the charming setting the hostess achieved with feathery bridal wreath, massed orange blossoms, sweet peas and roses. Miss Ethel Walker provided some of the lovely flowers. Any Easter bride would enjoy as well the quite amazing chapeaux which guests created from the odds and ends of fabrics, flowers and unusual decorative devices which the hostess produced. The collection of finished hats were presented to the party honoree.

After this hilarious interval, guests followed the quieter pursuit of needlework, hemming the dollies of a breakfast set which Mrs. Anderson presented her honor guest. This was but one of a collection of household linens, when gift packages brought by the guests were presented in a gaily embellished hat box.

There was so much friendly intimacy through the evening that after the hostess had arranged her tables with flowers and linens for the late refreshment course, all were brought into one group that the guests might continue the intimacy.

Mrs. John A. Tessmann assisted in serving and in all pleasant details of the evening.

Miss Wood's trip to the coast was broken by a few days spent at the Grand Canyon. She will be here until after the Easter holidays, and her hosts are planning many trips and other attentions for her entertainment. She will thus be privileged to compare the western region with that of the Atlantic seaboard with which she is so familiar. For as a member of the National Children's Welfare Bureau, her duties take her to all the capital cities of the New England states. She is an alumna of University of Pennsylvania, where she took her Master's degree in social service.

Episcopal Lenten Teas Come to Brilliant Conclusion

Lenten teas which have been given weekly this season by members of Episcopal Women's Auxiliary reached a brilliant finale yesterday afternoon with a well attended affair in the home of Mrs. Emil Wagner, 2402 Bonnie Brae. Hostesses with Mrs. Wagner were Mesdames Raymond Dawson, Helen Cappelen, W. B. Hellis and James G. McCracken.

Mrs. McCracken, United Thank offering chairman for the local group, introduced Mrs. George A. Robison of Los Angeles, who holds the chairmanship of the Los Angeles diocese, and who gave an interesting talk. She told of the triennial convention held in Cincinnati, Ohio, at which twenty thousand dollars was presented as the contribution from Women's Auxiliary thank offerings.

Music lent its charms to the afternoon for which Ruth Ann Walker Spears (Mrs. Clyde Spears) of Hollywood, formerly of this city, was a guest. She played brilliant piano solos including "Chorale" (Bach), "Rhapsody" (Brahms), "Viennese Dances" (Gardner) and "Military Polonaise" (Chopin).

Irma Huffman May (Mrs. Arthur May) sang lovely solos, "Before the Crucifix" (Frank La Forge), "Iris" (Wolfe), "The Wind Song" (Rogers), "Only a Rose" and "April Fool," accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong. The Rev. W. J. Hatter, rector of the church, gave opening devotionals.

Mrs. Frederic Dunstan and Mrs. Charles Swanner poured tea from a table made colorful with variegated flowers. Mrs. Thomas Crocker announced that the next meeting of Women's Auxiliary will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the parish hall. This will be a Holy Week observance.

Miss Minnie Besser, president of the Auxiliary, today announced that the Lenten tea series has been one of the most successful projects ever given by the organization. Even more interest was shown in the teas than was evidenced in last year's Lenten luncheons, she pointed out. Out-of-town guests yesterday were Mrs. Spaulding and her daughter of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mrs. J. L. Powers, of Ames, Iowa.

Bridal Hospitalities Given for Miss Helberg

As the time draws nearer for the Easter wedding of Miss Bernadine Helberg and George Huntoon, friends of the popular couple hasten to add their hospitable gesture to the long list of affairs already given. Latest of these was a luncheon Wednesday afternoon in Los Angeles.

On this occasion, Miss Helberg was feted by a group of friends who met in the home of Mrs. Palmer Grasse, a former Santa Ana resident. The Grasse and Helberg families first became acquainted years ago in Minnesota. Following the serving of luncheon and an informal social time, towels were showered upon the bride-elect. Presentation of gifts was made by Miss Peggy Grasse, daughter of the home.

Ranunculus blossoms and sweet peas were used in decorating for the party. Attending from this vicinity were Mrs. Helberg and her bride-elect daughter; Mrs. Paul Wolfgram and Miss Helen Olsen of this city and Mrs. Roy Tyreman of Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyreman entertained at an earlier affair in compliment to Miss Helberg and Mr. Huntoon. Their home in Anaheim was scene of the party, shared by 30 close friends and their families. The assembled group joined in giving the betrothed couple an occasional chair. Covered-dish dinner was served as a feature of the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Helberg and their son George, were among the guests.

Means and Esther Belle Christian to serve on the hospitality committee for the Fiesta.

At the close of the meeting, cake, coffee and tea were served. Miss Alice Smith, club adviser, attended the meeting.

Well-Attended Party

Plans for Tuesday afternoon's party staged by Social section of Woman's club in Veterans hall, were in the hands of a capable committee headed by Mrs. Leona Talbot. Working with her were Mesdames F. DeLoe, Neal Beisel, G. E. Arterburn, J. R. Ott and Miss Blanche Seely.

They had tables arranged with sweet peas and golden yellow ranunculus for the dessert course served in advance of the games program. Eleven tables were required to accommodate the guest group. Prize winning scores were made by Mrs. J. G. Shanafelt in anagrams; Mrs. M. M. Collins in auction and Mrs. Glenn Hulise in contract.

Dessert Bridge

Mrs. George Bradley received members of her bridge club Tuesday afternoon at the Doris Kathryn, where, dessert was served in a floral setting. Three tables of cards were in play with the result that Mrs. George Preble, Mrs. Wade Cargile of Ontario and Mrs. Terry Stephenson jr. held the three highest scores.

jimmie fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 30.—Settin' Around (Warner Brothers): The spring of 1939 will be remembered in Hollywood as the Era of Gloom—and nowhere is the prevailing trend more apparent than on this lot. Eight pictures are currently in production here—and only one is a comedy. The other seven are either ultra-dramatic, tragic, or downright morbid. This morning I saw George Raft raging in a prison cell, Gloria Holden fighting for life in an obstetrical ward, and Bette Davis at her grimmest in a depressing mid-Victorian drawing room. On the "Battle of City Hall" set, a murder trial was in progress. In the studio cutting rooms, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" is being readied to shock the sensibilities of Americans with its many scenes of horror, and "Juarez," highlighted by a series of executions and the mental collapse of an unfortunate lady, stands at attention to lend its note of woe to the swelling dirge. So . . . don't discard those handkerchiefs you soaked with tears while watching Bette Davis die in "Dark Victory"—other tears are yet in order!

In leading the Hollywood protest against racial persecutions and political tyranny abroad, the Warner Brothers, I'm afraid, have publicized themselves into a state of mind which is not shared by the bulk of American theatergoers. Mr. and Mrs. John Public still like to laugh, Hitler and Mussolini notwithstanding. In fact, the serious reflections imposed on every American by the ominous clouds gathering over Europe have made screen comedy a priceless safety-vent. Maybe I'm wrong, but if I were a producer, I'd start swinging "Misereere."

CHATTER ABOUT WARNER BROTHERS IDOLS: Lay down that "Give Me a Child" will be re-titled before it reaches the screen—too many wisecracks about it already. Bette Davis is calling her new home "Rancho de Nowhere"—but they tell me George Brent knows the exact location. Lya Lys may seem to you just a picture of blonde loveliness, but she's a grating lawyer, entitled to practice in France. It's Dan Cupid who is making things difficult on the "Enemy Agent" set—Eddie Norris visits Margaret Lindsay so often that she hardly has time to act. Wonder if Warner Brothers aren't making a tactical error in publicizing Ann Sheridan as the "Oomph Girl"—it seems almost too silly for public consumption. Lola Lane calls sister Patricia "Patty-cake." Too-much-for-me note: Dead-ender Bobby Jordan smothering his scrambled eggs with tomato catchup. May Robson passes the three-quarter century mark on April 19 next—but I'll wager there aren't many twenty-five-year-olds as young at heart. You'd never believe Olivia de Havilland and Joan Fontaine are sisters—they're neither look-alikes nor act-alikes and they pal with different cliques. Gladys George's swell acting almost makes you forget how beautiful she really is. Wonder how Errol Flynn's nose feels, now that George Brent is getting so many raves anent his romantic appeal? Boris Karloff may give you bad dreams—but so will hot mince pie, and that's an enjoyable dish, too. No need to worry about Leo Gorcey's financial future—he's putting most of his earnings in safe-and-sane annuities. So many word blunders have been credited to Maxie Rosenbloom that Hollywood's forgotten Sam Goldwyn can talk, too.

On the "Enemy Agent" set, Margaret Lindsay was playing a scene with Holmes Herbert—a scene in which she was to drop a book on the floor with enough of a crash to attract his attention. Four times Margaret dropped the book and four times the director stopped the scene to complain that it didn't make enough noise. "Hey," yelled Margaret to a passing property man, "Get me a copy of 'Gone With the Wind'—that's made enough noise to suit anyone!"

Had lunch with Jimmy Cagney—not in the ritzy "Green Room" where most of the stars eat, but in the very un-swanky main room which caters to the studio hoi-polloi. There are three grades of service there—tables with linen covers, tables without any covers, and the long counter. And the price charged for the lunch varies accordingly. Cagney claims that he can always determine just how long an extra has been working by noting his position in the cafe. "For instance," he pointed out by way of demonstration, "that extra at the bar is working for the first time this week; the one at the bare table is on the second day—and these in our section, being able to afford clothes, must have been at it all week."

Lloyd Bacon, currently directing "Give Me a Child," was telling about his first interview with Gloria Holden, who plays one of the leading roles. "I suppose you want me to play the mother whose baby dies," she said immediately. Bacon wanted to know how she had obtained a copy of the script. "I haven't," Gloria retorted, "but I know the type of role I've been doomed to play ever since my husband was killed in 'Test Pilot'."

Current Events Group Compliments Bride-Elect

Romance added to the charm of Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the Ebell Current Events section in the clubhouse, since members took this opportunity to shower gifts on Mrs. Louis Vorhis, whose marriage to Dr. Kyle Lyon will take place this week.

Mrs. Vorhis, Mrs. Charles Cogan and Mrs. Walter Hiskey were co-hostesses, serving luncheon at tables brightened with flowers and symbols suggesting the approach of Easter. Tea towels were presented to Mrs. Vorhis, who responded by playing several lovely piano numbers.

Chief of Police Floyd Howard gave a short talk on his safety program. Following a business session in charge of the leader, Mrs. George Osterman, bridge was played. Prizes rewarded Mrs. Harvey Bennett and Mrs. E. H. Guthrie for their high scores. Guests bringing the attendance to a total of 20 were Mesdames J. A. Stebbins, Inez Currie and Albert Eastman.

Dinner and Cards

Mrs. Robert J. Deiniger of Torrance, entertained members of a local bridge club at dinner Tuesday evening at Danigers, where pawnsies and other decorations were in Easter colors. Mrs. George Chapman and Mrs. Harold Nelson won prizes for their high scores. Guests sharing the evening with club members were Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. Leon Dickey and Mrs. Fred Merker.

REGISTERED MENUS—

There are days when the whole world seems to pile up and land on your shoulders. If you have dinner to plan and get on top of all the day's worries, it is sure to be the last straw necessary to set off an emotional flare-up . . . and there is no percentage in getting angry, so just forget the dinner question and concentrate on one dish that will fill up and satisfy the family. That dish for me is always waffles, and this time the recipe I am featuring uses bran and walnuts in delectable fashion.

Bran Walnut Waffles

Sift ¾ cup white flour with 3 level teaspoons baking powder and . . .
1 teaspoon salt.
Mix (by hand) with ¾ cup, each, bran and whole-wheat flour.
Whip 2 eggs very light, then with . . .
3 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons melted fat and ¾ cup milk.
Mix dry ingredients smoothly into liquids, and at the last add ½ cup finely chopped walnut meats. Bake on hot waffle iron and serve with syrup and butter, melted together.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Russian Appetizer

½ cup caviar mixed, with 1 tablespoon lemon juice and dash of cayenne
Large Spanish onion, rings shaken apart
Paprika
½ cup chopped stuffed olives
6 or more rounds of bread, toasted and buttered.
One-half cup of caviar is supposed to make six appetizers, but I think it could be stretched to ten without much trouble.

Use a cookie cutter to shape bread rounds. Toast and butter, spread with seasoned caviar, put a ring of onion over toast and caviar, dust onion with paprika and put a spoonful of chopped olive in center.

The toast rounds can be made earlier and kept hot by turning a bowl over the hot plate.

Deep Dish Rhubarb Pudding

2 pounds pink rhubarb washed and sliced.
Sift 2 cups of sugar with 3 tablespoons flour and mix

BUT THE MOVIES GO ON

Spain, we have been repeatedly informed, is a shambles, and certainly the devastation of the civil war can not be exaggerated.

Yet during all this hell, movie-theater patronage during even the past few months has held up amazingly, according to reports to several of the large American film companies.

Their country was on the rack, their own relatives and friends were dying, the very theater might crash about their ears at any moment, but they went to the movies, went again and again until the prints were foggy and shredded.

That is always the way it is. Carlyle has a passage in his history of the French Revolution in which he describes a night during the Terror something like this: "While right-arms here were red with slaying, right-arms there were twiddling on melodious cat-gut." Not everyone was on the barricades. Some stayed home, playing the six-stringed swinette.

It must always be that way, otherwise the world could never survive the punishment it continually undergoes at the hands of its more violent inhabitants.

ECONOMY BEGINS AT HOME

Continued federal deficits make it inevitable that the question of raising the federal debt limitation from $45,000,000,000 to $50,000,000,000 will be brought up in Congress. The debt is rapidly approaching the legal limit and there it must halt unless the American people, through their representatives, change the present law. Indications are that it will be no easy matter for the "spenders" to change the law. Congress, at least temporarily, is of a mind to economize. But Congress cannot be expected to stem the tide of spending or head the country off from bankruptcy entirely on its own initiative.

Again it must be pointed out that in the last analysis there can be no such thing as effective economy in government until the people themselves, through the polling booth and otherwise, express a desire for economy.

Local business men will have to learn to look farther than the end of their noses and refrain from lobbying for pet local projects which require so-called "free" government money. Local chambers of commerce and civic bodies will have to forego the hypocrisy of demanding economy on the one hand while on the other acting as "pressure groups," howling for public money for pet projects. Home town boosters of this sort are almost as serious a menace to Democracy as the worst of the dictators.

The nation needs real economy but it never can have it until the American people exhibit a sincere demand for economy—beginning back home.

MARKET LOST FOREVER

We might as well face it.

The great European market, which took off our hands vast amounts of farm products in the 1920s is gone forever.

It never did exist, really, because during the World War the need was abnormal, and afterward the war trade was largely supported by huge loans.

Ever since the war, men have been dreaming of the return of this market to a "normal" which never was normal. Desperate moves toward self-sufficiency by all European countries, the rise of new and competing producing areas, the walling off of trade areas by totalitarian countries—all these have combined to destroy a market which once took the products of 50,000,000 acres of American farm land.

There are two ways of facing this problem. One is to develop, insofar as possible, markets in the western hemisphere to replace those lost in Europe.

Another approach is more immediate and more direct. Farmers in one-crop areas are beginning to realize that the great European export market is lost for all time.

There is not, and cannot be, any permanent future in producing for a market that is gone, despite any generosity the government can muster. More and more such farmers, directed by wise and forward-looking local leaders, especially in the South, are turning to crop diversification, raising vegetables, or dairying, to supply things now generally missing from the diet of the people.

Before the problem can be solved it must be faced. Realization that the European markets of the 1920s are gone forever is the first step.

WORLD AUTOMOBILE CENSUS

Sixty-eight per cent of all the automotive vehicles in the world are in the United States, a recent survey by the editor of "The American Automobile" shows.

Americans operate 29,211,651 of the world's total of 42,942,694 automobiles, trucks and busses.

The other 124 countries covered by the survey have only 13,731,043 automobiles, trucks and busses among them.

Great Britain has only 2,542,294, yet it is second to the United States in the number of automotive vehicles on its roads.

Canada has 1,361,103 cars, trucks, and busses, while all Latin-America has only 933,563. Argentina has 279,267 of these and Mexico has 99,470. Cuba has 42,658.

Asia and Africa, with the exception of the Union of South Africa, are proportionately still worse off. Japan's 80,000,000 of people have only 140,000 cars and China's 450,000,000 people have only 44,750. The 350,000,000 people in India have 178,124. The Union of South Africa has 339,084 of the 655,755 automobiles in all Africa.

Absence of good roads, a low purchasing power, and tradition, account for the small number of automotive vehicles in use in many of the 125 countries surveyed.

American automobile exporters have many obstacles to overcome in these countries before they can induce the people to adopt the "two-cars-in-every-garage" slogan.

CAUSES OF UNBALANCED BUDGET

Everyone knows that the government cannot continue indefinitely to spend about three or four billion dollars a year more than it takes in; and, it is impossible, under the present conditions, to tax the people enough to pay the present expenditure; and it seems impossible, also, to reduce government expenses enough to balance the budget with the present income. With these conditions facing us, the problem seems hopeless.

The reason we cannot balance the budget at present is because we cannot cut off those people who are now being assisted by the government until they have some private way of earning enough to support themselves.

Then the step that will have to be taken first, before the budget can be balanced, will be to make it possible for practically everyone who wants work to be able to secure work in private enterprise.

Then we will have to analyze the reason why the jobs are so hard to get before we can balance the budget.

It seems logical to conclude that the reason more men are not hired is because those who do the hiring do not feel that they can make enough to pay these men and have anything left for their risk and labor.

Then it would seem that the place to start, in order to balance the budget, would be to bring about conditions so that there would be more inducement, or more prospects, for people to take risks in employing labor. There are three very definite things the government and public opinion are doing to interfere with employing labor.

First, the public generally believes in the minimum hourly or weekly wage. They seem to think that an employer is a crook, unsocial, unsympathetic and inhuman if he employs a man and does not pay him enough on which to raise a family. They seem to believe this, no matter how small an amount the man actually produces. When these people are asked whether an apprentice, who is learning, or a person, who is a small producer because of age should be paid enough so that he could support a family, they of course immediately make these exceptions. But when men insist upon doing work, at which they are not efficient, or want to constantly change from one job to another and never thoroughly master any one job, to require the employers to pay these men a decent wage, when they cannot produce it with their lack of experience, is simply to say, in reality, that these men will not have a job.

So this strong belief in minimum hourly wages should be one of the things corrected so that we can return to fulltime employment.

A second belief that will have to be corrected, is that the employer need not have the final say as to what constitutes a day's work for a given amount of money. In other words, the employer must have the right to select the best help he can to operate the tools—the capital—that he is trying to use to produce something that he can sell to benefit the customers. This right is interfered with by the labor unions, by the Minimum Wage Law and by the Wagner Law. These labor restrictions greatly reduce the efficiency, raises the cost and, consequently, reduces the ability of the entrepreneur to produce something at a price that will benefit the customer and, consequently, greatly curtails his ability to employ labor.

The third thing that greatly interferes with the employer employing labor is the discriminatory tax laws that tax a man by the social security law for employing labor and the income and inheritance tax. Under these laws, we are penalizing a man for benefiting his customers and benefiting his workers. We say under the income tax law, if a man rapidly adds to the tax duplicate of the world and rapidly reduces the cost of living for people, he must be fined and taxed for so doing. If he is unsuccessful in one year, his losses belong to himself. If he is successful in a large way, a very large part of it is taken away from him. So the bazarous and new businesses, which are necessary to constantly improve our standard of living, are greatly curtailed because of this penalizing tax.

Eventually, Why Not Now?

Eventually, before there can be general employment at a constantly increasing wage, these conditions will have to be eliminated and the longer we continue to permit these obstacles standing in the way of private initiative, absorbing the unemployment, the poorer we will all get, the more destitute we will become, the more discouraged we will be and the harder it will eventually be and the lower wages people will eventually have to take because of our delay in correcting, these impediments that are the primary causes of unemployment and, consequently, the cause of the budget not being balanced.

WE MUST CONVINCE VOTERS OF CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Those people who are mostly responsible for our unemployment—namely, our labor leaders, our educators, our politicians, our rabble rousing newspapers and our emotional preachers—when asked the cause of unemployment, invariably can not give a consistent answer or say they have no idea.

But, the minute the real cause is suggested—the interference of free exchanges and arbitrary wages and prices—they are dead sure that that is not the cause. Yet, they contend that they do not know the cause, but are sure that arbitrary prices is not the cause.

It is absurd and a contradiction on the face of it, to contend that they do not know the cause, and then to contend a given thing is not the cause. The only way they can prove a negative is to prove a positive. They cannot know a thing is not the cause, unless they know the cause.

OUR SECRET MONEY

Few people realize that under the present laws, the government has a right to secretly attempt to control the exchange value of money.

If people could be taught that the primary function of money is a measure of value and its other functions—namely, a medium of exchange and a storage of wealth, are minor compared with its primary function, then they would not consent to this secret arrangement, nor would they consent to permitting the misuse of bank credit, which temporarily distorts the primary function of money—namely, its measure of value.

The Road To The East

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The other day in Chicago the department of justice indicted 97 milk distributors on the charge of organizing a monopoly, fixing prices and increasing the cost of milk to the consumer.

It was one of the most sensational monopoly moves in recent history and embraced for the first time one of the giants of the milk industry. Even the National Dairy Products Corporation, whose Washington attorneys are Ambassador Joe Davies and ex-NRA boss Donald Richberg, and whose chairman, Thomas McInerney, is one of the most powerful business executives in the country, was brought to trial.

Almost no one knew it, but that indictment marked the climax of a long uphill fight for the prosecution of the milk trust. Prominent leader of the fight was Jerome Frank, one of the most fearless and tireless battlers for the underdog in an administration which includes many such battlers.

The story of Jerome Frank is unique. He is a Jew—brilliant, unassuming, unselfish, unshaming of his religion, yet with the sensitiveness of that race. His battling illustrates the deplorable extent to which racial prejudice has crept into government since the days of Hitlerism, even despite a president vigilant in his championship of tolerance.

The First Purge

Jerome Frank came to Washington during the earliest days of the New Deal as counsel of the AAA, soon gravitated to the Brain Trust, became a crusader for the farmer-consumer, and as such collided head-on with George Peck, Chester Davis and other champions of the big meat-packers, canners and milk distributors.

It was Frank who led the fight for grading the contents of canned goods, who tried to lessen the price gap between the cattlemen and the meat-packer, and who worked to expose the monopoly in milk.

This expose showed that two big distributors, National Dairy Products and Borden held a monopoly, swayed over 3,000,000 dairy farmers, refused to return the bottles of independent companies and succeeded in boosting the price of milk to 13 and 15 cents a quart in many cities when it could easily be 6 or 8 cents.

Eventually Jerry Frank's activities caused a secret meeting of the big milk distributors in Philadelphia, where they listed for official decapitation the young men who were helping him.

They were Gardner Jackson and Fred Howe, of the Consumers Council; Einar Jensen, milk administrator for Boston; Jerry Frank and his young assistant Lee Pressman. All had committed the cardinal sin of trying to protect the housewife.

The list was submitted by the big milk companies to Art Lauterbach, head of the AAA milk section, with the demand that they be purged.

For reasons best known to himself, Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture and boss of the AAA complied. The above were asked to resign. This came about the famous New Deal purge of 1935.

Milk Trust Busting
Four years later it was the same Art Lauterbach, ex-chief of the AAA milk section, and part instigator of the purge, who

"Father", Haas was born in Racine, Wis., studied for the priesthood at St. Francis Seminary, near Milwaukee, and has been mediating labor disputes since World War days. He knows hundreds of labor leaders and business men personally and is on good terms with both the CIO and AFL.

President Roosevelt appointed him to the original labor board in 1933 and he has been a special conciliator of the labor department since 1935. Before coming to Catholic university, where he is dean of the school of social science, Msgr. Haas was professor of sociology at Marquette university, Milwaukee. He is also the author of a widely-quoted book on collective bargaining.

Note: It is not likely that Roosevelt will do much about the labor board until the question of AFL-CIO peace is settled one way or the other.

Fair Enough

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON, March 30.—So much depends on the public remarks of men in this government, particularly as to foreign affairs, that there should be an honor committee among them to hold them to sobriety during business hours and at moments when they are sounding off on the radio or for the press after school. If a man speaks in a reckless or irrational and provocative manner when he is cold and sober the people who elected him are stuck with him and his remarks and have no remedy but to lick him at the polls next time around.

But whether he is elected or hired, which is to say appointed, there is an assumption that even if he is not a teetotaler, he will handle his liquor capably. Several steps have been taken by the Administration in recent days to win and to increase business confidence. There was the no-new-tax and no-further-reform announcement made by the President while on his way to observe navy maneuvers at the Des Moines conference in the address of Secretary Hopkins. There was the announcement of Secretary Morgenthau that he does not favor an increase in taxes—a quick reversal of his statement of January 18 that new taxes were indicated. Then there was the announcement of certain majority Senate leaders that no new anti-trust laws would be enacted by this Congress but that the investigations by the O'Mahoney Committee would continue.

All these statements present an interesting picture. One encouraging feature of it all is the obvious fact that the New Dealers recognize that their policies have been hamstringing business and undermining confidence in the prospects for prosperity and profits. This sudden recognition of what has been so painfully clear for so very long to so many people, including the so-called conservative Democrats in Congress, is an interesting study in psychology.

At least two important aspects of the situation stand out: (1) Will this sudden conversion by the Administration New Dealer be followed by acts and policies which will make good their current protestations? (2) Will businessmen accept these supposed encouragements in good faith and respond, or will they be skeptical, because of past experiences, and proceed with caution?

An analysis of all these recent words of encouragement reveals little of a tangible nature that warrants optimism for the present on the part of businessmen. In general, the status quo is being maintained. If there are to be tangible changes for the better, they have yet to appear. Taxes have not been changed; the monopoly investigation is to continue with all its possibilities of unsettling business; there is no move to balance the budget; there is no agricultural program that is encouraging; there is no railway program, and the Amle appointment to the L.C.C. has not been withdrawn; there is no move to

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON, March 30.—So much depends on the public remarks of men in this government, particularly as to foreign affairs, that there should be an honor committee among them to hold them to sobriety during business hours and at moments when they are sounding off on the radio or for the press after school. If a man speaks in a reckless or irrational and provocative manner when he is cold and sober the people who elected him are stuck with him and his remarks and have no remedy but to lick him at the polls next time around.

But whether he is elected or hired, which is to say appointed, there is an assumption that even if he is not a teetotaler, he will handle his liquor capably. The country should not have to risk the consequences of remarks tossed off, perhaps into the teeth of some paranoiac European marauder, by a government agent who is either drunk at the time or mentally impaired by that lingering pickled which in some hard drinkers, persists for hours after a binge. There is no such escape in the law, however, and there are no regulations, so it devolves upon the men, themselves, who make up the government, including the houses of Congress, to impose a rule of conduct that is expected to be observed by every person who drives an automobile.

The history of governmental Washington is rich in amusing stories of picturesque old toss-pots and nocturnal door-kickers, now preserved in marble or bronze in stately hall, who delivered deathless orations when they were barely able to stand and couldn't see at all. But the memoirs of the army also abound in tales of horseback generals who drank straight from the jug, and a drunkard could not get a command today.

A lifelong teetotaler would not be a competent witness, but any man or woman who has had experience in liquor is eligible to testify that alcohol tends to stifle discretion and blur judgment. The businessmen trust themselves to read and sign important documents when they are feeling gigantic, and men in the government should admit and act upon the fact that a colleague who is known to get blind now and again may deserve public exposure so that he can be kept out of the country. It is a strange fact that the civil branch of government in the elective and higher appointive levels is the only zone of activity in this country in which a man may get drunk, stay drunk for days or keep himself in a mildly stewed condition for years without loss of privilege or standing. A clerk may be fired but a statesman may not be even rebuked. And a lawmaker, for example, going before his people asking reelection may not even be accused of inebriety, except in whispers which defeat themselves, if he can manage to stay sober in public during his campaign.

If a newspaper reporter in the capital were to say, without absolute truth, that a statesman was grogged up when he delivered a dangerous declaration his paper could be sued and mulcted, hands down, because even in traffic cases the humblest defendant may beat a similar charge if he knows his rights, unless tests have been made at the time. The charge is a matter of opinion and, if it is made some time after the incident and is heard a consider-amend the Wagner Labor Act; New Deal spending policies have not been changed; the monetary structure is left in a state of suspense.

Thus all we have is words; and we have had words of this type heretofore. Such words have come in the past when the New Dealers have found themselves on the defensive, and this is precisely the situation today. When circumstances in the past have led the New Dealers to believe that they could act aggressively they have not hesitated to do so regardless of the harmful effect on confidence, prosperity, or employment. In the light of these past experiences, there is no reason for believing that the New Dealers would not push their "reforms" and "issues" again and at the first opportunity regardless of the effect on business confidence if they believed that they could gain politically by such a thrust. At least that has been the story thus far.

But there are some other factors to consider at present. One is the approaching next election; another is the widespread talk about the New Deal being on the way out. If it is granted that these two factors explain the present repentance and plea for sympathetic understanding and co-operation, and if it be granted further that this belated repentance will last until the election of 1940, the question still remains whether sufficient steps can and will be taken to restore this nation to the paths of sound recovery.

The horse of economic recovery has been beaten, abused, and jerked about until it is easily an open question whether it will respond to coaxing so long as the reins remain in the hands of the one responsible for its past abuse. Like its counterpart in the animal kingdom, the horse of economic recovery probably is sufficiently sensitive to past experiences to look beyond mere words. A smart horse—economic or animal—can detect th. anger, fear, or weakness in its master's voice. There is good reason for the horse of economic recovery to shy, hesitate, and kick over the traces so long as the new coaxing voice is that of the man who has used the cat-o-nine-tails to "encourage" it and to exact "reform."

Great effort is being made to show that this encouragement of confidence is all part of a far-sighted, consistent program, and that it really is not a sudden repentance based on a fear of the political consequences.

These are times for lifted eyebrows. Prudence calls for caution. The trend of business is not at all clear, and until the Administration's encouraging words are backed by tangible acts of encouragement, caution and skepticism seem to be called for.

"It is for each to utter that which he sincerely believes to be true, and add his unit of influence to all other units of influence, and let the results work themselves out."—Spencer. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.

The Editor:

It sure amuses me to take an occasional peek at the gibberish that is presented as logic in the columns of the Register Clearing House. I or anyone else couldn't stand a steady diet of such trash. It is surprising that the government, or the heads of large industries, have not as yet found out how all their troubles would be over, if they would only employ the "Professor Know-Alls" that contribute their wisdom (?) through the columns of the Clearing House.

I wouldn't for the world present any contradicting viewpoint to such oracles as we have in Santa Ana, but I shall sit at their feet, figuratively speaking, and ask them a direct answer to the following question:

Please name one SPECIFIC article that could be sold at a profit, at the present time, that is not being manufactured because of any of the following reasons: First, because of government interference; second, because of the lack of financial backing to build a factory to manufacture and market same; or, thirdly, because of the lack of trained workers to attend to the production end? Please give me facts—not opinions, guesses, or platitudes but facts. Gentlemen: Put up or shut up. Sincerely

Fellow Citizens:
The rain descends upon the just and unjust. In a like manner the blessings of the Christian religion are reaped by believers and unbelievers. A Christian has the greatest resource to liberty and freedom, the heritage of Christianity. Though tyrants in their beastly cruelty torment and kill his body they cannot destroy his soul. It is secure in Christ, his Redeemer. Of this the Rev. Neimoller is an outstanding example. He is the innocent victim of Nazi paganism for he has chosen to obey God rather than godless men, whose aim is to make the German Protestant churches subservient to Nazism. Martin Niemoller has focused the sympathy upon him not merely of the German people, but of the entire world. Though the German court has found him guilty and cleared him of all political motives he has been detained for more than a year in a sordid concentration camp, where he still is. Despite the fact that friends at home and abroad have petitioned Hitler again and again to release this God fearing man. His strength is in his unflinching faith in God. In following his conviction he has given new life and courage to millions.

Right forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne. Yet, that scaffold sways the future. And behind the dim unknown Stands God within the shadow Keeping watch above his own.

Communism, Nazism, Fascism detest Christians and Jews alike, since their refuge rests in a power beyond the control of dictators. For this reason also, they despise our Republic with its constitution, founded on the Rock of Ages. The despots of Europe hate democratic forms of government and Christianity, because our ideas and ideals are in conflict with their paganism, their ideology, and the basic forces of their despotic regimes.

May we do our share in encouraging our congressmen to cleanse our country of totalitarianism and the many evils that follow in its wake that we may get back to the competitive system of private enterprise, self-reliance and sound morals.

able time after that, proof is almost impossible. It is in the field of foreign relations that irresponsible remarks may be particularly dangerous and deserves the least protection from the tolerance and etiquette of the statesmen. Bellicose speeches and statements tending to aggravate hostile feeling bring their rejoinders, and the showdown may involve the lives of millions. It is bad enough that sober fools may court wars for younger men to fight, but there seems to be no way of avoiding that risk.

In Washington it is sometimes heard that this or that person of prominence and influence, known to the public only by name and official position, was out on the town the other night and tried to drive a hotel sofa down the street against the lights. But only a comparative few know such explanatory truths and may divide a statesman's remarks next day by just that much, leaving a quotient of 0, while the world, uninformed, takes them at face value.

● SERIAL STORY

'MRS. DOC' BY TOM HORNER

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictional.

Yesterday, Emily welcomed Alan and Eric back, thanks to her saving Alan from the fire. Then she tells Alan that Peterson has sent a contract and Alan says he has something to say about that later.

CHAPTER XX

ALAN hurried on up the stairs, disregarding Emily's bewilderment, her half-spoken appeals. Yes, he told himself as he undressed, climbed into bed, he would have something very definite to say about Emily's leaving. And the sooner it was said and done, the better.

Emily did love Eric. No denying that; any fool could see it. The way she had kissed Kane, the tenderness with which she had caressed his burned hands. Her relief when she found the injury was not more serious.

They would go away; she would get her divorce—and then, Alan could not bear to think of her as another man's wife, in another man's home. What would life be for him, without her?

He had chosen Summer, and his practice—and he had just that—and that was all. But he wanted—Emily!

His vision of her smile was blotted out by sheets of wind-blown rain, her eyes became as two glowing acetylene lamps... there was a roaring in his ears... shouts, screams, moans... a dark mass bearing down upon him, the slap of waves against the launch...

Sound sleep at last drove the distorted dreams from his mind. He did not hear Emily tiptoe into the room, pull down the shades, and tuck the blankets closer about him. Nor did he feel her lips, soft against his cheek. Only the walls heard her sob—and they gave no comfort.

THE ringing of the telephone awakened him. He sat up in bed, reached for the instrument on the nearby table.

"Dr. William Peterson, New York, calling Dr. Alan Warren," the operator said.

"Just a minute, I'll call him," Emily said, on the downstairs phone.

"I'm awake, I'll take it here," Alan broke in. Then to the operator—"This is Dr. Warren."

"Hello, Alan! Congratulations on some fine work," he heard Peterson say a moment later. "Even the papers here in New York are making you a hero. Well, it's good advertising for the school."

"Haven't much time, sailing at midnight, but wanted you to know that your contract is safe. All you have to do is sign it, and move to St. Louis before school closes in June."

"I'm not taking the position, Dr. Peterson," Alan said.

"You're not what!"

"I'm staying here in Summer. My work is here," Alan spoke slowly, carefully choosing his words. "I'm sorry if I've caused you any trouble, accepting at first, and now, backing down. But I can't do it. I'm just a country doctor, Dr. Peterson. I belong here—I'm going to stay here."

"Is that absolutely final, Alan? You won't change your mind," Peterson asked.

"That's final, Doctor."

"Well... you know what you want to do. I had hoped though, that you'd be with us. I need you, Alan. The school needs you."

"My people need me here, more. Have a good trip, Doctor. I'll be up to see you when you return."

"Goodbye, Alan. You've made your decision. Never regret it."

ALAN sang lustily in the shower, and was grinning happily as he hurried downstairs. Outdoors the sun was shining brightly. A cardinal whistled from a treetop; a few green blades of grass were pushing up through the brown bareness of the lawn. Spring almost here, Alan thought. And only a few short weeks ago, all this had been hidden by the blizzard.

Emily was waiting in the breakfast room. And Eric, Alan's grin faded.

"Hello, sleepyhead," Emily said with a laugh, as she kissed him. "Thought you'd never wake up."

"You slept the clock around, and then started on it's second trip," Eric said. "You were still dead to the world when I awoke, and left last night—and pounding your ear when I came back to say good-bye."

"I guess I was pretty tired," Alan admitted. Then as the import of Eric's words struck him—"To say good-bye? What do you mean?"

"Orders. Conference in St. Louis on whether we'll go on with the dam. Brass hats from Washington will all be there—to rake me over the coals."

"Farrell looked at my hands this morning, put on new dressings. He says they're coming on fine, probably won't even scar. I'm taking the noon train."

Eric leaving, Eric, carrying his broken dreams in bandaged hands, stepping out again. But it would be different this time.

"I told you yesterday I had something to say about your leaving, Emily," Alan began. "I want Eric to hear it too. It concerns both of you—all of us."

"But, Alan—I—" Emily interrupted.

"Yes, I know... but listen to me now. It's going to be difficult to tell you, but I have to do it. Let's get it over, get it settled."

"Alan, what are you talking about?" Eric asked, almost angrily.

"About you, about Emily, about me," Alan spoke quickly, as if trying to hurry through his unpleasant task. "You love Emily. And she loves you—"

"Alan! I don't—you don't believe—"

"You may not realize it now, but you will," Alan went on, striving to keep his voice calm and even. "It will take time, but eventually you will know, what I know now—that you love Eric."

"I'm staying in Summer. It is best that I do. I might go away, go with you to St. Louis, but the break would come sometime. It might as well be now. I have my work; I'll be all right."

"Your place is not here in Summer," he went on, avoiding her eyes. Eric stood, silent and wondering. "This is not your world, Emily, and I've been a fool, I've been cruel, trying to make you stay in it. Here you have sickness, trouble, pain and death. You deserve something better than that."

"You are too young, too beautiful to give up the happiness that is rightfully yours. You need music, laughter, love—gaiety."

"Eric can give you these things. I can't."

"Eric is the man for you, Emily. He can give you the kind of a life you want—the kind of a life you should have. He's a fine man, a true friend, and I'm proud to have known him. He's brave, he's honorable. He'll make you happy. And that's more than I've been able to do."

"Be good to her, Eric. She's precious."

Eric nodded, solemnly. He said nothing.

"Alan, Alan, you don't know what you're saying!" Emily's voice was almost a scream.

"But I do—this is the way it should be. Break quickly. All friends. No tears. No hate." He turned to go. "Please go with Eric now, Emily. Have Herminia pack, send your things. Don't—don't be here when I come back!"

His voice broke. Quickly he turned, ran from the house.

"Alan—darling—don't—don't! Come back! You're wrong!" Emily screamed after him. But he was far down the street, walking swiftly, when she reached the door. If he heard her, he did not let on.

She stood in the doorway, tears streaming down her face. Eric's arm was around her.

"He's gone—My Alan—gone!"

TRYING YOUNGSTERS

If there is anything on earth—anything human I mean—that is more trying on the nerves and the patience of mothers than a boy between ten and twelve years of age, I have not met it. From birth onward their mothers wash them, guard them, teach them to play, to work, to behave with human intelligence, and yet, at this age, when they look intelligent, when they look like reasonable human children, they try the patience of the saints.

Let mother be busy for just one bedtime. Do they wash themselves thoroughly, put away their clothes, leave the bathroom tidy, remembering to brush their teeth? Not they. Into bed they pile, and one can count himself fortunate if they remember to take off their shoes. Wash their feet? Brush their hair? Say their prayers? Why spoil a rare occasion with such reminders? They are holding holiday.

We may just as well be reconciled to the situation. They are like that. Washing and brushing and being nice is foreign to their natures which are human, and of the earth, earthy. The customs and manners we are trying to impose upon them are a recent idea, only a few hundred years old, while the carefree go-as-you-like idea is as old as the race. One must teach and wait hopefully, with what patience one may.

In time they learn. They are learning all the time. It does not show on the surface. Growth in children is like growth in young trees. It is underground for the earlier years. Root growth. It is slow and sure and in time, substantial.

"But I tell him and tell him, and then he comes to the table dirty. I teach and teach, yet if my eye is off him he will pick up his meat in his fingers, or choke himself with a mouthful like a bale of hay. I am discouraged."

Don't be. His father did the same. You in your way, did the same. Fathers and mothers are always discouraged about the growth of manners and morals in their children. But they do grow, and, in time, they do function. They are growing stronger every day, with every lesson they are given. It is best to make those lessons as pleasant as possible so the growth is accomplished by as little unpleasantness as possible.

I always remember with glee the time a small boy was invited to a select birthday party and his mother said, "I am afraid to let him go. I've tried so hard to teach him good manners and he remains a perfect little savage. Goodness only knows what he may do. But it would be as bad to keep him home. He'll just have to go and I'll have to take what comes of it."

The next day his hostess shocked and surprised his mother by calling her on the telephone to say, "I must tell you how charmed we were with your little boys' good manners. He was the very best-behaved child at the party—in fact, the best-mannered child we ever saw."

All the time he was being hammered into shape he was taking form. So take heart and don't give up when these small rascals seem so dense. They aren't as bad as you think. They could always be worse.

Tail-Spin Is Screened Today

"Tailspin," the gripping story of women who fly, opens tonight at the West Coast in conjunction with "Adventures of Jane Arden." Constance Bennett, Alice Faye and Nancy Kelly are co-starred in 20th Century-Fox's thrilling air drama, and according to Manager Eddie Sugden, nothing quite like "Tailspin" has come to the screen in many a season, and from the opening scene to the breath-taking climax you'll know you are witnessing one of the outstanding pictures of the year.

"Tailspin" depicts the adventures of three girls who get into the dangerous game of airplane racing for three equally important and different reasons, one because she needs the money, one because it's closest to the heart of the man she loves, and one because she wants to be near her flier husband. The cast also features Joan Davis and Charles Farrell.

"Adventures of Jane Arden" with Rosella Towne in the title role is the first picture in a new series being based by Warner Bros. on the heroine of the popular cartoon strip.

Christian Science Lecture Delivered Here Today

JOHN R. DUNN IS LECTURER

"Christian Science: The Solution of the World's Problems," was the subject of a Christian Science lecture delivered at noon today at the Broadway theater by John Randall Dunn, C.S.B., of Boston, Mass., under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Santa Ana.

Mr. Dunn is a member of the Board of Lecturers of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. He spoke substantially as follows:

You have noticed many times, without doubt, a certain inscription over exits from buildings and cars which reads: "This Way Out." Often have I wished that I might write below this the words "Christian Science," for every student of this great subject realizes more and more that the understanding and practical application of the Science of Christianity affords the only definite way out of the many problems which confront and perplex humanity today.

Nineteen centuries ago the great Teacher of Nazareth pointed the way out of human discords, and rightfully has ever been called "The Way shewer." But have mortals really accepted Jesus as the practical way-shower out of aught but sin? Have they looked on him as the greatest healer of disease that the world has ever known? Have they realized that on the shores of the Galilean lake were given scientific rules which when put into operation would solve here and now the knotty problems of human existence, of capital and labor, of men and of nations? In a word, have mortals been turning naturally to the teachings of Jesus to find present-day salvation from evil?

PRESENT DAY SALVATION

If a bit of personal reminiscence is permissible, I would say that our family, though conscientious church-goers always, never supposed their sense of Christianity capable of supplanting their quinine and calomel in a case of sickness. Such a thought would have been labeled speedily as far-fetched and not common sense. Quite unconsciously, I am sure, we exemplified the sentiment of the man who said that religion was an excellent thing if not carried too far, and was not allowed to interfere with the practical affairs of life! But because we did not carry our religion far enough and allow it to permeate the innermost details of daily experience, we encountered seemingly unsolvable problems of sickness, of lack, and other forms of inharmoniousness. It was not an uncommon sight to see a member of our family return from church, go promptly to bed, and call for some strong medicine to enable her to overcome a severe headache caused by overwrought emotions. We knew not in those days that emotionalism was the product of the carnal mind, and not of the divine Mind, and that the simple, sweet message of Christ Jesus should heal headaches and still the turbulent emotions. In fact, the good news brought by Christian Science to a suffering world is that a scientific understanding of the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth can begin this very day to untangle our snarls and find answers to our many human problems; that Christianity must not only save men from a future hell, but from a present hell—the hell of sickness, lack, fear, hate, and all its unlovely etceteras; that heaven, the reign of harmony, is possible in ever-increasing degree here and now.

AN INSTANCE OF JESUS' HEALING

Let us consider for a moment one of the many examples given in the Scriptures of Jesus' simple, and yet to our sense marvelous, handling of a problem of sickness. Take one of his early healings as recorded in Luke's gospel. He is besought to help the mother of Simon's wife, who is seemingly gravely ill. Apparently he makes no inquiries as to symptoms, does not ask for the cause of the malady, nor does he desire to take her temperature or feel her pulse. Let us see what happened, as recorded by Luke. "And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her: and immediately she arose and ministered unto them." There was no period of convalescence, no gradual abating of the fever, nor slow recovery of strength, and the great Healer did not caution her about her diet and warn her not to eat too much. "Immediately she arose and ministered unto them!" In the records of its four thousand years medicine cannot find such an outstanding cure of fever wrought through any of its material methods. And yet Christ Jesus did not use one material thing. He rebuked the fever—the fever, please notice, and not the woman. Now a word is only the audible expression of a thought; hence that which brought about this remarkable healing was wholly mental—in other words, it was something which the Master thought or understood.

HOW DID JESUS HEAL THE SICK?

This mighty understanding we see rebuking unclean spirits, healing epilepsy and all manner of disease; we see it stilling storms; enable Jesus to walk on the water, to raise the dead. Perhaps the saddest and most grievous error which scholastic theology makes is the relegating of these demonstrations of Jesus' control over evil and materiality to the realm of the miraculous. Theology excuses its failure to do these works on the ground that Jesus was God, and his acts therefore supernatural; notwithstanding the fact that the Master plainly said that of himself he could do nothing, that it was the Father dwelling in him that did the works, and that those who truly believed on him (understood him) would be able to do the things that he did and even greater things. Therefore the all-important question before Christian people today is: Can we as professed followers of the Master do the works which he did? Can we think his thoughts today, and begin to solve our problems by his method? What was it that Jesus thought or understood when he rebuked fevers, stilled storms, overcame lack, and subdued materiality?

MRS. EDDY'S HEALING EXPERIENCES

These questions began to form themselves in the thought of Mary Baker Eddy at an early age. She was a deeply religious child, and has written that she would listen with joy to the assurance of her spiritually-minded mother that God was able to raise her up from sickness (Science and Health, p. 359). And she not only had proofs of this with herself, but on one occasion when a mere slip of a girl she subdued an insane man. It seems that an escaped lunatic rushed into the schoolyard where the little Mary Baker was playing. The man was violent, brandishing above his head a club. The children fled in terror—all but Mary Baker. She walked quietly up to him and took his hand. Instantly his manner changed. The arm with the club dropped to his side, and he walked with her quietly to the gate. In later years, but before the light of Christian Science had streamed in its fullness upon her thought, a woman brought her child to Mrs. Eddy, laid it on her knees, and begged her to ask God to cure its blindness. "Mrs. Eddy has stated that she lifted her thought to God and returned the child to its mother, assuring her that God is able to keep His children. The mother looked at the child's eyes and they were healed." (The Life of Mary Baker Eddy by Sibel Wilbur, p. 70.)

THE DISCOVERY OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

It can be seen plainly that the idea of Christian healing had been budding throughout Mrs. Eddy's earthly experience, and therefore it was perfectly natural years after, when she found herself near the gates of death, again to turn her thoughts toward spiritual aid. She called for the Bible and opened to the ninth chapter of Matthew. As she read the story of the healing of the man sick of the palsy, the great truth for which she had been searching all her life began to dawn upon her thought. She began to touch the hem of the garment of the healing Christ, and to glimpse the answer to the age-old question, "What is truth?" In that glorious moment, and in the months and years of consecrated searching and praying that followed, there was unfolded to Mrs. Eddy Jesus' method of healing, what Jesus must have thought and understood and practiced. In proof of this she not only found herself well, but with this understanding she was able to heal others. In fact, many of Mrs. Eddy's demonstrations of healing are as remarkable as those which she recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. Of such healings she speaks in her writings very briefly and modestly, but we find that cancer, consumption, hip disease, insanity, the morphine and opium habits, and many other forms of sin and sickness all went down speedily before her realization of the might and glory of the Word of God.

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TEXTBOOK

Then she set about sharing with the world her discovery, and in the textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and in what are called her shorter writings, we find revealed the Science by which Jesus, the apostles, and the prophets unquestionably did their mighty works. The best Christian Science lecture that could possibly be delivered would consist simply in reading to you from these inspired books; but the Bible and Mrs. Eddy's writings should be studied, pondered, and prayed over rather than given only the hasty consideration possible in the few moments allotted for this lecture. If any who listen to this message are led to these God-inspired writings, our time today will have been well spent; for the man, woman, or child who is willing to study Mrs. Eddy's works and begin to put into practice the truths he learns therein, stands indeed at the threshold of a new life. In Science and Health (p. 224) we read: "A higher and more practical Christianity, demonstrating justice and meeting the needs of mortals in sickness and in health, stands at the door of this age, knocking for admission. Will you open or close the door upon this angel visitor, who comes in the quiet of meekness, as he came of old to the patriarch at noonday?"

"WHAT IS TRUTH?"

On the flyleaf of the textbook Mrs. Eddy has quoted these familiar words of Christ Jesus, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Here is the rule left by the Master Metaphysician for the solving of every problem of human experience. All these years it has stood, and all these years have mortals looked on it and then passed it by, uttering again Pilate's plaint, But what is truth? If therefore this Christian Science textbook unlocks that great treasurehouse of spiritual understanding, the Bible, and reveals the answer to this question, "What is truth?" is it not well called "the Key to the Scriptures?"

THE BASIS OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Webster defines the word "truth" as the "real state of things; fact; reality; actual being or nature." Now in order to find the "real state of things" and man's "actual being or nature" Mrs. Eddy very properly leads thought to the contemplation of the opening chapter of the Bible. The chapter in the Christian Science textbook entitled "Genesis" contains without doubt the most remarkable spiritual interpretation of Scripture extant. It emphasizes the fact that in the first and second chapters of Genesis are to be found two separate and distinct records of creation; the first dealing with the spiritual, real creation of God, and the second setting forth an allegory illustrative of a material conception of God and man. On the facts of being set forth in the first chapter, however, the Christian Scientist takes his stand.

THE GOODNESS OF CREATION

What a glorious picture of creation is drawn in this opening chapter of the Old Testament! No evil is here, no fear, no sickness, sin nor death; but as each object of God's handiwork appears, we read that "God saw that it was good." How could it be otherwise, when the very name of the creator, God, means in the Saxon, good! Now Jesus has taught us that God is Spirit, the opposite of the material, and Science and Health amplifies this with the statement that Spirit must be Mind, the all-knowing intelligence. So, in the first chapter of Genesis we find that the creator, infinite Mind or Spirit, which is infinitely good, is creating man and the universe like himself. The great First Cause, being good, the effect must be good. We read: "And God made man in his own image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth. . . . And God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good."

SPIRITUAL VERSUS MATERIAL CREATION

"But," may interpose some one at this point, "does not this refer to the Adam-man mentioned in the next chapter?" Let the Scriptures answer this query. We read that Adam was formed of the dust of the ground, was material, and became a living (material) being, apparently capable of knowing good and evil; whereas the material of the first chapter is not material but mental, spiritual, God, Spirit, Mind, and has been given dominion over all things. These two records of creation are as far apart as the poles.

THE ADAM-DREAM

There is to be found in the second chapter of Genesis a simple statement that apparently has been overlooked by theologians and Bible scholars all these years, a statement, however, of vast import, for it tells us in a few words all we need to know about Adam and materiality. The verse reads: "But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground."

And then with the coming of a mist appeared material man, capable of sinning, being sick, and dying. In Science and Health (p. 523) Mrs. Eddy describes this mist as "mystification," the opposite of understanding. So, while the man of the first chapter of Genesis proceeds from God, the all-knowing Mind, the Adam-man comes with mystification, and is formed of dust. Soon we read that a deep sleep falls upon Adam, and here is another point that many have overlooked: there is no mention of the fact that Adam ever awakened! So in the textbook (p. 306) Mrs. Eddy refers to material sense as the "Adam-dream," in which all mankind seems to be enmeshed, and from which it needs to be awakened.

SEEING THE TRUTH ABOUT MAN

In the book of Ecclesiastes the distinction between God's man and the material concept is clearly drawn, where we read, "Go, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have sought out many inventions." A little child had listened to the reading of that verse, and it had impressed him greatly. Shortly after he found his grandmother had taken to her bed, and seemed to be quite ill. The little fellow appeared perplexed for a time, but finally went to the bed and said gravely: "Grandmother, don't you know that God made you up right? He did not make you up wrong!" This then is the glorious truth that mortals are learning in Christian Science: that mankind need only turn from the mist—the evidence of the material senses—to the great spiritual facts of being as stated in the first chapter of Genesis to find the truth which maketh free. Mrs. Eddy writes in Science and Health (p. 171): "Through discernment of the spiritual opposite of materiality, even the way through Christ, Truth, man will reopen with the key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed, and will find himself unfallen, upright, pure, and free, not needing to consult almanacs for the probabilities either of his life or of the weather, not needing to study brainology to learn how much of a man he is."

THE ORIGIN OF EVIL

Here the question may be raised, "If you insist that the truth about man is that he is spiritual and not material, where does this material or Adam-sense of things come from?" When the Christian Science states that material sense is only another name for the Adam-dream, it says all that there is to be said on the subject. One does not analyze a dream, one merely awakens out of it; and when one is thoroughly awake, he pursues his dream-phantom no further. The question as to the seeming origin of evil can be answered therefore only by spiritual awakening and growth in understanding. When one has a clear-cut proof of healing in Christian Science; when some picture of discord which has seemed so real and powerful has faded into nothingness before the blaze of Truth, then and not until then will the question be satisfactorily answered. Along this line an almost humorous passage of Scripture is to be found in the book of Job. You remember that there was a day when the sons of God were supposed to present themselves before the Lord, and the record states that Satan came also among them. Then the Lord says to Satan, "Whence comest thou?" Hear the illuminating response: "From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it!" Here evil betrays its emptiness and powerlessness. It has no law, no source, no reason for existing, no object. It is as Jesus said in his ringing denunciation, "A murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in it!"

CALLING EVIL A LIE

Here then is the Christian Scientist's warrant for denouncing evil as a lie, a fraudulent sense, and never the product of a loving and all-wise Father. This does not mean, however, that the intelligent Christian Scientist airily waves evil to one side, and says, "Oh, there is no sin, so why worry about it?" He is taught to handle the serpent of sin by bringing it out from its hiding place, seeing that it confers no satisfaction, and then turning from it with loathing, if not with tears of repentance. In no one thing does Christian Science prove itself more divine than in its combined sternness and compassion in its treatment of sin. We read in the textbook, "Expose and denounce the claims of evil and disease in all their forms, but realize no reality in them" (p. 477). Ah, there is the task difficult to the average mortal, accustomed as he is to according power and reality to evil, and condemnation to the sinner rather than the sin. Yet nothing short of this can be termed true Christian healing of sin.

AN EXAMPLE OF JESUS' HEALING OF SIN

Take for example Jesus' healing of the woman taken in adultery. The self-righteous scribes and Pharisees endeavor to secure from the Master endorsement of their hard rule of "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth." But he stoops and writes on the ground, making no reply. Finally, in response to their insistent demands for an expression of his views, he says very simply, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." And again he leans forward with his finger traces words in the sand. Tradition has it that Jesus wrote the secret sins of the accusers, and they when their evil doings were uncovered. Is it not comforting to note, at this point, that the Master wrote these sins in sand, instead of chiseling them in a rock? Then the Scripture tells us that he lifted up himself and saw none but the woman, and then delivered that message of compassion and healing that has rung down the centuries. "Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more." What did Jesus see when he "lifted up himself?" Certainly not a sinning, weak, imperfect daughter of Adam, but the sinless, spotless image of God which had just seemed hidden by the Adam-mist, and his recognition of the truth of being dispelled the false picture and set the captive free. Having discerned in the woman's thought true repentance and turning from sin, the Master unsaw the evil; in other words, he separated man from evil, and thus took away its seeming power.

THE CAUSE OF DISEASE

Let us now consider the application of the truth of being, as revealed in Christian Science, to a case of sickness. In the first place, the Scientist does not ask to see the patient's tongue, but to discern what is in his thought. He has learned in the textbook that "fear, ignorance, or sin" is the cause of all disease (Science and Health, p. 411), so he goes at once to the root of the difficulty. The material physician becomes greatly concerned over the presence of this germ or of that infection; but does he see the germs of fear, of despair, of heartache, or of condemnation that are the actual cause of the discord? As for surgery, only the sword of Spirit, the Word of God, can truly remove the poison of hate and fear from the human consciousness. Thus it is that the man healed in Christian Science is not only improved materially, but is inevitably lifted higher spiritually.

AN INSTANCE OF HEALING OF SICKNESS

The following case of healing came under my observation some time ago, and illustrates how the spiritual idea of being comes like an angel visitor to the sufferer, and awakens him to the glorious realization of his freedom as the child of God.

A woman had been battling for some days with a condition which physicians might have called intermittent fever. She seemed quite ill, but she and her husband were Christian Scientists and were bravely fighting it out along spiritual lines, and resorting to no material remedies. The fever would come and go, come and go, and just when they felt the ill was conquered, back it would seem to come with increased violence. Both husband and wife were clinging to the truth of being, and endeavoring to speak to the disease "as one having authority," but there was something lacking. They repeated words, but the realization of the truth of their statements was wanting, and their discouragement threatened to overwhelm them. One day, after a rather encouraging morning, the husband came home to find the wife again prostrated, her cheeks aflame with the fever and crying as though her heart would break. "Oh," she said, "I don't believe I shall ever be healed!" The husband sat beside her for a few moments, and then a light broke in upon his thought, "I know what is needed in this family," he declared. "We have been saying words, only words! We have been making these great statements about God and man, and have not thanked God that they are true. What we need here is more of the medicine of gratitude!"

"I do not see anything to be grateful for," said the wife, still weeping. "Then," said the husband, "suppose we begin counting the blessings which have come to us since we have known Christian Science." Proof after proof of God's care and protection was cited, but no sound came from the bed. "Now," continued the husband, "let us thank God for the healings we know others have had." A voice from the bed joined him in this, for it was easy to remember other people's healings. "And now we come to our greatest cause for gratitude," said the husband. "Let us thank God, as did Jesus at the tomb of Lazarus, that the Father has heard us. Let us thank Him that we are whole and free now, no matter what the material senses are reporting. Thank Him that the law of good is the only law governing us, and that this picture which has seemed so real is only a part of the Adam-dream. Let us thank Him that this error is really not going on. Thank Him that we are awake!" By this time the wife was working with him, and after possibly fifteen minutes he put his hand on the brow that had been so hot. It was moist. The eyes were bright. The fever had gone, never to return. Gratitude, therefore, may be said to be the sign that one truly has reached the realization of the truth which he declares.

THE HEALING OF "FINANCIAL SICKNESS"

Let us now consider the case of a man "financially sick," or who may be said to have "a sick business." Can this spiritual understanding of creation help him? Even so. Possibly every business man will agree that a higher, happier, and more hopeful view of things would work wonders in the business world. No realm is more susceptible to mental influences than the so-called business world. Superstition, fear, doubt, and panic find easy access thereto, and if not checked and nullified by the action of Truth, these may work much mischief with the individual, the community, or the nation. Should it be thought unreasonably that the Word of God, which in Jesus' time stilled storms and raised the dead, should be able in our day to quiet fear, restore confidence, bring about harmony in an organization, and promote and bring to success a righteous business venture? Christ Jesus once said, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." The reason for the failure of many a business man lies in the fact that instead of being lifted up from the earth, as the son of the King should be, he is wearing still the lividry of Adam, and carrying about an atmosphere of gloom and fear and limitation that repels rather than attracts his brother-man.

"WHAT HAST THOU IN THE HOUSE?"

Have you ever read in the Bible the story of the poverty-stricken widow who, as creditors were about to take her sons to be bondmen, appealed to Elisha for help? You will recall that the prophet meets her appeal in quite an unexpected and unusual manner. He says, "What shall I do for thee? tell me, what hast thou in the house?" She replies that she has nothing save a pot of oil. He then tells her to secure as many vessels as she can, go into her house, shut the door, and begin pouring out the oil. She is astonished, and in the great manifestation of abundance that follows, every vessel is filled. Here may be seen an instance of the marvelous light which the study of the Scriptures throws upon the Christian Science. We learn in Christian Science that "house" may be likened to one's "consciousness," while "oil" typifies "consecration; charity; gentleness; prayer; heavenly inspiration" (Science and Health, p. 592). Therefore when we are confronted with the argument of lack, hard times, fear, loss, and so on, and we turn to the first message is, Look within! What have we in our mental homes? The first temptation is to say bitterly, "Nothing!" Ah, but have we not a little oil that we can begin pouring? Cannot we pour forth a little more charity to our business associates, a little more gentleness in the home, a little more prayer and consecration to the heavenly Father? To our amazement we find that the difficulty was not from without at all; it was within. Some one has aptly said, "The hole through which you give is the hole through which you get." If we have provided no outlet for the streams of love and gratitude, how then can we expect a great inflow of good? The Scripture gives us a definite law on this subject. It says, "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, . . . and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST NOT DISMAYED

Picture, if you will, a life-saver heroically battling with the waves in the effort to pull ashore a shipwrecked man or woman. Then imagine, if you can, others standing on the shore, and instead of encouraging the rescuer and assisting in the grand work of rescue, jeering and taunting the rescuer, criticizing his methods and predicting disaster. A rather unthinkable picture, is it not? And yet this very thing happens in thousands of instances daily when some earnest Christian Scientist attempts the work of rescue for a shipwrecked brother or sister. Material medicine scoffs, the worldly-minded sneer and shrug their shoulders; and, in spite of all this, the sick and sinning and heartbroken are being rescued in ever-increasing numbers. What glorious quick healing work may we expect to see with increased consecration on the part of practitioner and patient, and a lessened hatred and intolerance with the onlooking brethren not of our fold. So the Christian Science life-saver refuses to be dismayed or discouraged. He is grateful that he is doing as well as he is, and prays for understanding and grace to do better work in the future. Dare he even admit that those who have passed from our sight, battling to the last moment as good Christian warriors, have gone down in defeat? Never! Mrs. Eddy says of such soldiers, that they have gained "a rich blessing of disbelief in death, and a higher realization of heaven" (Miscellany, p. 297). So fear not, and despair not, whether you are the rescuer or the one being rescued!

"Oft there comes a gentle whisper, o'er me stealing, When my trials or my burdens seem too great, Like the sweet-voiced bells of evening, softly pealing, It is saying to my spirit, 'Only wait!'"

"When I cannot understand my Father's leading, And it seems to be but hard and cruel fate; Still I hear that gentle whisper, ever pleading: 'God is faithful, God is working; only wait!'"

"When the promise seems to linger, long delaying, And I tremble lest perhaps it comes too late— Then I hear the gentle whisper ever saying: 'Though it tarry, it is coming; only wait!'"

"Oh, how little soon will seem our hardest sorrow, And how trifling is our present brief estate! Could we see it in the light of Love's tomorrow,

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PRACTITIONER

"But," may say some one at this point, "I know of a case that Christian Science did not save. How do you account for that?" The textbook gives the answer very simply and directly. It says: "If you fail to succeed in any case, it is because you have not demonstrated the life of Christ. Truth, more in your own life,—because you have not obeyed the rule and proved the Principle of divine Science" (p. 149). Christian Scientists admit with regret, but not discouragement, their failure to measure up to the Christ-ideal in all cases. However, they are overwhelmingly grateful for the progress already made, and ask mankind to be patient while they strive for that Mind "which was also in Christ Jesus." Possibly this is a good reason why those under Christian Science treatment are called "patients"; the sufferers are asked to be patient while their practitioners strive for that reflection of infinite Love which will melt away the mist of mortal belief, and reveal the harmonious man of God's creating.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE PATIENT

"Then the patient has no responsibility, no particular work to do?" may ask some inquirer. Indeed he has! Suppose a ship has gone on the rocks several hundred feet from shore, and a survivor clings to a masthead of the submerged vessel, calling for help. Then suppose a rope is thrown to him by one on the land eager to rescue him. The man on the wreck apparently takes hold of the rope, but pull as he may the friend on shore cannot budge him. Soon he discovers that while the man has one hand on the rope with the other he is clutching the mast. The rescuer calls out, "Let go that wreck! Put both hands on the rope, and I can pull you in!" Rather reluctantly the other obeys. But soon again there is trouble. The rope slips from his hands, and with difficulty he regains it. This time it appears that he is trying to carry ashore some cherished possession—a bundle of valuable garments—and in his eagerness to cling to it he loses the rope. "Drop everything and hold to the rope if you would be saved!" shouts the rescuer. Again, reluctantly he obeys, and soon is brought safely to land. To his great joy he finds in the home of his rescuer better garments than those he was compelled to give up. Here unquestionably is food for thought. Let those under Christian Science treatment ask themselves: Am I clinging to the wreck? Are both hands on the rope of spiritual understanding, or have I one hand on the belief that this or that medicine or operation may save me? Have I cast from me the entangling mental garments of self-pity, self-love, and self-will? Am I trying to take with me into the kingdom of heaven some cherished opinions, some preconceived notions of which I have been rather proud, or some material indulgence? Be not afraid to rid yourselves of these unlovely hindrances to progress, for divine Love has more beautiful mental garments awaiting you than you dream of. If the patient prays for humility, receptivity, and teachableness, and the practitioner strives for the Mind of Christ then may they say in the language of Paul, "Who can be against us?"

"Oft there comes a gentle whisper, o'er me stealing, When my trials or my burdens seem too great, Like the sweet-voiced bells of evening, softly pealing, It is saying to my spirit, 'Only wait!'"

"When I cannot understand my Father's leading, And it seems to be but hard and cruel fate; Still I hear that gentle whisper, ever pleading: 'God is faithful, God is working; only wait!'"

"When the promise seems to linger, long delaying, And I tremble lest perhaps it comes too late— Then I hear the gentle whisper ever saying: 'Though it tarry, it is coming; only wait!'"

"Oh, how little soon will seem our hardest sorrow, And how trifling is our present brief estate! Could we see it in the light of Love's tomorrow,

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PRACTITIONER

"But," may say some one at this point, "I know of a case that Christian Science did not save. How do you account for that?" The textbook gives the answer very simply and directly. It says: "If you fail to succeed in any case, it is because you have not demonstrated the life of Christ. Truth, more in your own life,—because you have not obeyed the rule and proved the Principle of divine Science" (p. 149). Christian Scientists admit with regret, but not discouragement, their failure to measure up to the Christ-ideal in all cases. However, they are overwhelmingly grateful for the progress already made, and ask mankind to be patient while they strive for that Mind "which was also in Christ Jesus." Possibly this is a good reason why those under Christian Science treatment are called "patients"; the sufferers are asked to be patient while their practitioners strive for that reflection of infinite Love which will melt away the mist of mortal belief, and reveal the harmonious man of God's creating.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE PATIENT

"Then the patient has no responsibility, no particular work to do?" may ask some inquirer. Indeed he has! Suppose a ship has gone on the rocks several hundred feet from shore, and a survivor clings to a masthead of the submerged vessel, calling for help. Then suppose a rope is thrown to him by one on the land eager to rescue him. The man on the wreck apparently takes hold of the rope, but pull as he may the friend on shore cannot budge him. Soon he discovers that while the man has one hand on the rope with the other he is clutching the mast. The rescuer calls out, "Let go that wreck! Put both hands on the rope, and I can pull you in!" Rather reluctantly the other obeys. But soon again there is trouble. The rope slips from his hands, and with difficulty he regains it. This time it appears that he is trying to carry ashore some cherished possession—a bundle of valuable garments—and in his eagerness to cling to it he loses the rope. "Drop everything and hold to the rope if you would be saved!" shouts the rescuer. Again, reluctantly he obeys, and soon is brought safely to land. To his great joy he finds in the home of his rescuer better garments than those he was compelled to give up. Here unquestionably is food for thought. Let those under Christian Science treatment ask themselves: Am I clinging to the wreck? Are both hands on the rope of spiritual understanding, or have I one hand on the belief that this or that medicine or operation may save me? Have I cast from me the entangling mental garments of self-pity, self-love, and self-will? Am I trying to take with me into the kingdom of heaven some cherished opinions, some preconceived notions of which I have been rather proud, or some material indulgence? Be not afraid to rid yourselves of these unlovely hindrances to progress, for divine Love has more beautiful mental garments awaiting you than you dream of. If the patient prays for humility, receptivity, and teachableness, and the practitioner strives for the Mind of Christ then may they say in the language of Paul, "Who can be against us?"

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST

Picture, if you will, a life-saver heroically battling with the waves in the effort to pull ashore a shipwrecked man or woman. Then imagine, if you can, others standing on the shore, and instead of encouraging the rescuer and as-

Oh, how easy it would be for us to wait!"

This is not a plea to postpone our deliverance to a future heaven, but to strengthen faith to lay hold on spiritual blessings here and now, and courageously and unflinchingly to keep on demanding man's birthright of dominion until it is made manifest. Do Christian Scientists demand the joy and good that are their God-given heritage? Many seem to think that joy is like a capricious butterfly which may or may not flutter in upon them; whereas joyousness is part and parcel of man's real nature, and mortals must learn to claim it as vigorously as they demand freedom from pain and sin. The joyous Christian Scientist still wanders in the mist and in the maze of the Adam-dream.

CONCLUSION

The Psalmist sings, "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." And unnumbered thousands of earth's dreamers, redeemed from the long night of materialism, are thanking God for His unspeakable gift, the Science of Christianity, and are hearing in the bright morning hours of spiritual revelation its gracious message to man:

"Joy to the world, the Lord is come;

Let earth receive her King;

Let every heart prepare Him room,

And heaven and nature sing."

(Hymn 64, Christian Science Hymnal.)
